1 - Gone

Friday the 13th

A black night all is lost except for a grain of sand lying there so peacefully in your palm...some say that you should throw it away along with the rest of your memories forget that it ever was in your hand...you know better than that, you put it carefully in a bottle filled with dirt you water it every day yet your hopes are not high. you were told to do this by a old lady said something marvelous was going to happen if you did it. And something did happen, it was not marvelous at all. You died in trying to protect the little grain of sand. And now all your friends miss you, or that is to say I miss you. I came by a few minutes after you died i was going to try and convince you to join the school play.i will never forget it. You lay there on the floor motionless the grain of sand clutched in your hand. You had an angry expression that night. You were sick of waiting, you pulled the grain of sand out of the dirt then something odd happened to the grain of sand it sprouted tentacles and strangled you. That was thirteen years ago, i still have the grain of sand i tend to destroy it as soon as i can. The grain of sand that killed my best friend is here in my pocket. I lost something dear friday the 13th.
