1 - Problems Settling Down

“Class. Class! I would like to welcome our new students, Kit Fox and Korinn Wolf” the teacher called out above the class. I tried not to look as nervous as I felt while Korinn looked as though she just didn’t care. We were both out of place because we were both wearing boys uniforms. Mine was the normal blue and Korinn’s a special black. We both carried over our shoulders our book bags; they looked bulky for we had a change of clothes in each for after school (we were going to go look around). The teacher pointed out two desks for us Korinn’s next to a boy named Yugi and mine next to a boy named Joey. We immediately sat down, and as we did the teacher started his lesson. I noticed the many of the girls were passing notes, and on occasion I saw that most were discussing Korinn and I. All of a sudden there was a piece of paper sitting in front of me it was from Korinn.

Kit,

Those notes are about us! I think I should do a little mind scratching don’t you? Write back.

-Korinn

I went pale, how could she even think about such a thing. I knew the only way to do this without any one getting hurt I had to play it safe.

Korinn

Oh, who cares what they think, it is not like you care. Do you?

-Kit

I passed the note back and I watched Korinn as she read it and I knew things were going to turn out ok. Through the day Korinn and I heard of great places to go and things to do but the thing that we like the most was the card shop. We heard Yugi talking to his group of friends about how his grandpa got in a new shipment of cards from the factory earlier that morning. One thing that made Korinn and I uneasy is that we felt a presence around Yugi, like a spirit loomed over him.

After school and we had change in to our other clothes we headed to the card shop. We both wore jeans and a t-shirt (mine white, hers black) and matching chokers (mine white & blue hers black & red). When we walked into the card shop we saw Joey, Yugi and another classmate named Seto Kaiba. They were all looking at cards, making a small pile of the one they wanted. After we looked at the rare cards that were in the show cases Yugi finally realized that we were there and walked up to us and asked, “Do you ladies need any help?” I stopped looking at a rare dragon and answered, “No Just looking.” Just then Yugi realized who we were. “Oh Kit, Korinn, I didn’t know you guys were in to duel monsters.”

Joey put his card down and walked over to me and asked, “Hey, what kind of deck do ya have? Mine is a mixture.” I looked at him and smiled, “See for your self?” I said as I handed him my deck “mine is a dragon and winged beast.” A few moments later Joey stumbled across my blue-eyes white dragon. “A BLUE-EYES!” Yugi and Kaiba immediately stopped what they were doing and walked over to Joey. “Yeah it my favorite. An old friend sent it to me. In the letter he told me that five had been made and one was with an old man who owned a card shop and the others were owned by the champion of duel monsters, I forgot his name.” I laugh and watch the guys look the card over. Kaiba stopped looking at the card and said, “Sorry to say this, Kit” even though he sounded relieved. “That cards a fake.” I looked at him, “Where do you get that Kaiba?”

He smiled and said, “You have been very misled there are only three Blue Eyes White Dragons in the world.” I laughed, “I am suppose to believe some guy who probably doesn’t even know how to duel.” Kaiba walked forward and grabbed the front of my shirt. “I am the duel monsters world champion, and I own the only three blue eyes and the only blue eyes ultimate dragon. I would say I know how to duel.â€? I punched him, and the dusted myself off. â€œYou probably won a tournament full of novices. I donâ€™t care who you are. The Blue Eyes is real.â€? I grabbed my deck and started to walk out the door when Kaibaâ€™s cell phone rang. He listened to the voice and then hung up the phone. â€œOh, you might not want to leave, that was my little brother telling me that the school wants me to give you a place to stay.â€? I froze. Since Korinn and I were exchange students we were to be taken in by a fellow classmate to give us a place to stay. I stopped in the doorway and looked at him. â€œThen letâ€™s go, come on Korinn.â€?

â€œOh no, Korinn is being taken in by Yugi, he was telling us earlier. Sorry to disappoint you.â€? I had to bite my lip to hide the discomfort in my voice. â€œThen lets go. Bye sis.â€? Korinn looked worried and I knew she could see the fear in my eyes. â€œSee ya sis.â€? She said but she gave look that was more like â€œTake care of your self, Kit.â€? I nodded and walked out the door. There was a limo waiting in the front of the shop and I open the door for my self and climbed in. A few moments later Kaiba joined me. I looked out the window and tried to think of other things besides Kaiba. The long silence was broke by Kaiba and his demanding words. â€œI want that blue-eyes of yours.â€? I looked at him with hateful eyes. â€œWhy you have three, what do you need mine for?â€? He smirked and looked me in the eyes. â€œI want you to give it to me so I can get rid of it.â€? I balled my hands into fists ready to punch him. â€œIt's mine and youâ€™ll getting it over my dead body.â€? His smirk stayed where it was, â€œThat can be arranged.â€? I pressed the button and told the driver to stop the car. Before it fully stopped I was already out running back to the card shop. I knew Kaiba was too heartless to care what happened to me.

2 - Stay With Me

I reached the shop as Yugi was seeing off Joey. I ran up and they looked surprised. "What's up Kit?" Yugi asked. I panted a moment and said, "Kaiba wants to get rid of my blue eyes and I don't think he'll take me in if I don't give it to him." Joey looked at me and then smiled, "You can stay with me?" I smiled back, "Thanks Joey, but won't you get in trouble and won't your parents mind?" He shook his head, "Nah, and I live in an apartment with Tristan." I thought about it, "Well won't Tristan mind?" His smile got bigger, "He'll get over it." I laughed and nodded. "Ok, let me go tell Korinn." I walked in the shop and found Korinn behind the counter looking at a pile of cards. She looked up and saw me and I told her, "I'm going to stay with Joey instead." She looked at me and raised her eyebrow. "Kaiba wanted my Blue Eyes and I won't give it to him." She nodded and waved me closer, "I'm glad you're staying with anyone besides Kaiba, but I'm not sure Joey is such a good choice. He told Yugi while he thought I wasn't listening about how he likes you." I blushed and then shook my head. "Yea right, what ever he was probably talking about another girl." Korinn just shook her head, "Ok, One, I know he was talking about you and two, you like him. I am saying this since you didn't get what I meant the first time. You two better not hook up." I sighed, "Korinn, I came here to learn, not get a boy friend." She rolled her eyes, "Whatever." She waved me away and I walked back outside. Joey looked at me, "Ready?" I nodded and we began to walk to his apartment. "We're gonna walk through the park, it's nicer." I nodded and followed close behind him. We scaled a long path heading to the center of the park. "Ya ok?" he asked when we reached the fountain. And sat down on a bench "Yea, why?" He shrugged, "I don't know ya seem on da edge." My eyes widened and I gasped, "Oh yeah, I'm fine it's just back in America I was mugged a few times and they told us at the school that this wasn't a very good place to go alone." I felt Joey's gaze soften, "Why would any one do that?" I watched the water, "I don't know. Maybe I look weak or maybe they just wanted some one to pick on." I shook my head as if trying to make the thoughts go away. "Hey, don't worry. I'll protect ya." I felt Joey put his arm over my shoulder. My muscles tensed and I shivered lightly. "What's wrong?" he asked as I stood up. "I'm sorry! I don't think I'm that we should get close like this! Korinn doesn't want me getting involved with anyone!" Joey stood up and walked over to me. "I'm not one to keep secrets, but how will she know. Ya guys won't even be living in the same house." I looked down. "She knows everything!" I felt his gaze on me a moment then he grabbed my hand. "Kit, it's not like she can get a hold of your diary anymore. Just burn it and get a new one. Then she won't even know what the new one looks like." I sighed. "Joey, One, I don't have a diary and I never have. And Two, She reads my mind. We're like sisters, I can't lie to her, and even if I wanted to, she could tell." He nodded and was quiet a moment. I thought a minute. I did like Joey and he liked me, I wanted a boyfriend and here was my chance. I looked at Joey and smiled, "I don't know how but I won't let her find out." He smiled and kissed me on the cheek. "Let's go home." We raced off once again to his apartment.

3 - Home For Now

Joey opened the door and we walked in. "Yo! Tristan, ya home?" Joey called out. He received no reply. "Oh well, he's probably out somewhere." I nodded and looked around. When I got to the bedroom I asked, "Where am I going to sleep?" He smiled at me and shrugged. "Joey! You can't tell me that you said you'd take me in before thinking about these things." He chuckled lightly and looked around, "Nah, course not, I liked you too much to say no and miss a chance." I walked over and hit him on the head lightly, "And I like you too much to hurt you too much." I giggled and then we both began to laugh. "Well, you can sleep on my bed and I can fold out the couch bed for myself." I thought a moment, "Are you sure?" He looked confused a moment. "Oh, I didn't think you were one of those quick girls, I mean we can both sleep in my bed if you want." My mouth dropped open and I resisted the urge to slap him. "No! I MEANT DO YOU WANT ME TO SLEEP ON THE COUCH BED!" He laughed, "I was just jokin', ya don't have to yell like that." I walked over to the bed and lay down, my face still red from blushing. "Silly male!" I mumbled into my pillow. He laughed quietly. I suddenly sat up. "Oh no! Joey, Kaiba has my stuff! What am I going to do?" He thought a moment. "Hey, don't worry babe. I have plenty of extra clothes. You can wear some of my clothes. I even have an extra uniform that's too small, since you wear the boys ones any way." I sighed, relieved. "Thank you Joey. I'm so sorry for forgetting that. I was just in--" I was quieted by Joey putting his finger to my lips. "It's ok. I promise. I really don't mind." I nodded, looking him in the eye. "Kit, you have to lighten up. Ok?" I nodded again, still keeping eye contact. He lifted his finger from my lips and I saw his gaze shift to my lips. "Um, can I take a shower?" He snapped to the present and nodded, "The bathrooms just over there." He said pointing to a room just outside the bedroom. I stood up and walked in, closing the door behind me. I sighed and then turned on the water. I shed my clothes and climbed in. I let the water wash over me, welcoming the warmth and quiet. I began to wash my hair and let my thoughts wonder slightly. I hadn't told him that Korinn saved me from those thugs, or that she could read my mind like an open book whenever she liked; she could even be doing it now. I felt my cheek, where he had kissed me. Maybe he really did like me, enough to pass her test. The test, it doesn't require brains, but love and will. Korinn takes her pocketknife and rests the tip on his Adam's apple. She slowly brings it down to their heart enough to cut their shirt and leave a thin scratch. Once the point is at their heart she makes an X there and tells them if they hurt me, X marks the spot. If they scream or back away, they fail. I sighed; Joey doesn't like me that much I know he doesn't. There was a knock on the door and I jumped. "Yes?" I asked slightly scared. "I wanted to leave you some clothes on the sink, can I come in for a sec?" I pulled the curtain farther over. "Yes, sure." I heard the door open and his footstep and a soft thud of clothes on the sink. I then heard nothing a moment and watched as his silhouette looked toward me. I then watched him turn and leave, closing the door behind him. I finished my shower and dried my hair. I looked at the clothes on the sink. It was just a large baggy shirt. I laughed to myself, it was late and he probably knew I was going straight to bed. I put it on and walked out. I poked my head around the corner to see Joey and Tristan at the door. Tristan looked at me and then at Joey, "I was just leaving." Joey punched him in the shoulder and told him why I was there. "I'm going to sleep. Good night." Joey looked at me and held up a finger. Tristan walked into his room and shut his door. "Let me get the couch out before you turn off the light." I nodded and sat on the bed. While he was attempting to pull out the couch bed I saw him glance at my legs a few times. It took him a little while longer before the bed was successfully out. As he laid down I got up and turned out the light. As I passed the couch and he grabbed my hand. "Ya?" I asked as he sat up. He looked me in the eyes and we held eye contact. "Kitâ€ˆinever mindâ€ˆ!" He looked down and let go of my hand. I watched him a moment wanting to know what he wanted to tell me. "Joey? I want to give you something for putting up with me." He looked up at me confused. I leaned down and kissed him, his lips soft. After a moment he wrapped his arms around me and pulled me to him. We pulled away from each other and sat on the pull out bed in each otherâ€™s arms. "Good night Joey." As said before I kissed him again. I walked over and laid down on the bed and slowly fell asleep, only to be awoken from my dreams to soon.
