1 - bring on the clown

Sharpening her knife Nat, sings a song.. "Im a lil tea-pot short and stout..."

On the radio theres reports of a body found in the most gruesome and inhumane pose, body parts missing and the unmistakeable mask of utter terror upon the victims face this seems to be the sixth body found this month...

"Oh, I guess they found Tommy.. only eight more to go guys, wow the police are pretty lazy here. Soon there will be more bodies than townfolk." Nat smiled to herself admiring her handie work. The Insurance sales man well whats left of him never would have thought his family would be cashing in his life insurance check. "nobody should interrupt my breakfast" she said as she sipped on her blood covered brainfreezy

Heaving a ratherly large and bloody backpack out of the tiny rent controlled apartment Nat looked up and down the hallway "O.K. coast is clear"

"HI NEIGHBOR!!!" echoed up and down the hallways

"Dammit not her, please dont let it be her, god no not her" Nat thought as she turned around "oh hi Tenna.."

"Hey Nat!!" and then to Nats horror this oddball of a neighbors friend reaches into her pants and pulls out.. a squeekie doll "master spooky said hello to!!!"

Trying to keep Tenna's attention away from the bloodsoaked backpack/insurance salesman Nat callously asks "So wheres your er.. friend Devi, thats her name right?"

Poking at the bag now "Oh shes locked herself in her room again, whats in the bag?"

"Nothing, im going on a picnic."

"Can I come" Tenna innocently asks

Nats reply ws as cold as ice "No." "this girl must be on something maybe she would be a better place if she was no longer with the living" she thought as she swung the bag away from Tenna.

"Please please please can I come? Devi wont leave her room not even for chinese food! And thats just not right"

"And why won't she leave her room" Nat asks still dodging around the topic.

"Oh because this guy she had a thing for is in town. And she is afraid to leave her room."

"Oh really?"

"Yeah i think his name is Johnny"
