No Flash Photography

I was used to this, acting out the same fight over and over with me always beating Naruto at his own theme park, just to impress the fans. But this time was a little different, this time, almost all of the fans had something on them that showed that they loved yaoi. So, what do you do when the fans want something? Why, you give it to them of course! Naruto ran to throw a punch at me and I was supposed to dodge it easily just by stepping to the side, but this time, I didn't move all the way over. I took a slight step so I was in his way, but not in the way of his fist, I turned toward him, and closed my eyes.

Just as I expected, our lips met before he had time to react. A huge cheer rose up from the crowd as Naruto's eyes snapped open. Naruto's arm had been thrown over my shoulder, but Naruto didn't move it. His eyes closed and he pulled me closer. People began taking pictures, not wanting to miss this at all. But, no matter how popular this was for the crowd, we were still kicked off stage. This was only the beginning as Naruto pulled me to his room and hooked a sign on the door that read, plain as day, "No Flash Photography."
