Chapter 1 - Earth's Gift

2

1 - Earth's Gift

Earth's most precious gift is life
The gift of love and dreams to enjoy like a husband and his wife
But this is slowly changing and life is being taken away
An example of this is the war of everyday and the balance of life is begun to sway
Everyone is told it's a free world and have the right to speak their mind
But when we take a stand and soon to our surprise we were caught off guard and are now in a bind
We say what we think like we've been told
And our superiors are angry because we broke the code
They don't give us a chance it's got to be just right
Just because we're different doesn't mean we have to fight
Us with the different race doesn't change who we are
Depending on the heritage it shouldn't leave a scar
People are all the same the colour, size, age, sex and race shouldn't really bother
Everybody on this planet originated from the same mother and father
But because of all the hate that people choose not to see
This beautiful loving planet Earth will never be crowned free
