Prologue - Broken Dreams; The Fallen

"Ooof.. Oww.. W-where.. Am I?" The young stranger asked, but no one was around to answer his unsure question. Not a soul. He came falling from the sky. Descended onto the very earth he once walked upon. Now, he was searching, searching for the answers he was seeking for, any little thing would do as his first clue. As he was now, wondering around in this desert waste land, that was unable to be called a home. He knew that to the east was a small town and from there was a reservoir of the town's water supply.

He was unable to speak a word for his mouth was so dry that he could barely talk or utter out any sounds at all, and if he tried to move too fast he'd lose his consciousness from the bright and flaming heat. Everything was starting to look dark and bright all at once, but when he got to the nearby town, a boy stepped outside one of the shops.

It was Sora, the boy from Destiny Islands, he came to this town in search of another quest with his two friends Donald and Goofy, none the less Riku and Kairi was there, too. This town was different from the desert lands, instead it didn't look like the western towns in those cowboy movies. Instead, it was so beautiful and serene for that kind of a look. Though the dirt road did look the same after landing on it, of course.

The young stranger fell-to-the-ground after he saw the brightness(or whiteness) in Sora's eyes, of course! So, that he knew that, Sora saw him before he fell(or tumbled) onto the solid ground. When Sora saw him fall he immediately hurried(or rushed) over to him, "H-hey..!? A-are you, okay?!" Sora asked loudly. "Ah? Uh..? H-here.. open your hand to mine.. It is your heart.. that controls this.. power.. The Arcadia Angel. T-take.. good care of.. it, okay?" The younger stranger uttered as he replied, "I wish.. she was here."

As Sora held out his hand to catch the trinket from the boy's hand, "Who? Who do you with was here?" Sora then replied as the younger stranger's last words, "Twilight.. I wish Twilight was here.. My.. girlfriend," The younger stranger answered with a fading sigh, "By the way.. my name's.. Rei.. ku," By that time Sora, was looking at the trinket that was in his hand and replied, "Reiku..?" (These were the broken dreams; To search for The Way Home/Another Journey)

A few days had passed since their meeting; today was a new beginning for them both, for now, they had crossed paths with their destined route(or/path). For now, both were to walk into each other's shadows and take up the job and responsibility for protecting(one another)the other. "Hey, Sora. Remember, what I said, "My name's Reiku." Don't call me that, okay? It's Rei. Just Rei, no added; ku," Reiku replied, Sora then asked, "But I thought your name is Rei.." Reiku interrupted Sora, "It is ..Reiku! But I just don't want to be called that, okay," He responded as he looked away from Sora, "Oh, I see," Sora answered. That was the end of their conversations for a long while, so it remained silent and quiet for a while.
