1 - the idea

ok the idea of shockzone actually has a theme that it follows (unlike Nightmare on Elm Str. with very random themes). The theme is that 7 teams are fighting each other and going through challenges in a stadium. This stadium is not ordinary, it's in a different universe in which the concept of matter does not exist. In this universe teleporting is easy. Instead of matter, everything is made of a substance which can break and reform perfectly without being damaged; it can choose whatever it wants to look like. The only problem is that what it wants to look like becomes its only look. After that it can't change its look until its death. This substance is called Shoxinite. It makes up all the buildings, surroundings, and people which go by the name Shoxenates (it is not a mistake that it goes from Shoxinite to Shoxenates and not Shoxinites) Shoxens for short. That is one reason for the title, the other is the battle stadium is called Shockzone. It's a parody of Sports Zone. Well the teams are made up of humans (well most of them). Each team has a different theme and name. Each team has a leader to make decisions. The leader is picked by the most intelligent person in the group. They're fighting for different prizes (of course). There are humans on the show that are not on the teams. They got to Exzadore (The small town where Shockzone is) in random different ways.
