I saw the movie Pay it Forward (it's a MUST see)

The movie inspired this song

1 - You Can Change The World

We're always saying
The world can't change
But no one's tried
But maybe there is still hope
Maybe the world can be different
It's not easy
But it's not impossible
Everyone has got it in them
We've all seen something unjust
But no one has tried to make it right
Oh can't we try a little harder
There's something we can do
People have always made attempts
But now its up to you

I know its short, but after reading the book/ watching the movie, it's opened my eyes to what can be done. I know I know, you people are thinking, its just a movie/book. It can't be done. But how do you know that? Nobody's tried it, and what if it could happen. Going out of our where for someone in trouble is not a miracle. It's being a good person. I believe that this world can change if people would just have a little faith in others.

Doing something good does not mean you have to save lives. Little things help. Giving a little money to someone who needs it. Giving someone something you've worked hard on. Spending time with someone. Not judging others. Asking someone how their day was.

I think this world is capable of changing.
It doesn't have to be a movie where everything is perfect.
