

Column #2

By KDD

Submitted: May 18, 2004

Updated: May 18, 2004

Gay marriages shocked the world. Is it just a fad that will soon end with broken beliefs and hurt feelings?

Provided by Fanart Central.

<http://www.fanart-central.net/stories/user/KDD/3467/Column-2>

Chapter 1 - Gay Marriages

2

1 - Gay Marriages

Fads. Are they things that seem cool or empowering at the time being? Or are they a person's beliefs and hopes that others notice and wish to participate in? Or are they both? This seems true for the subject of gay marriages. In the beginning they protested for equal rights and for their marriages to be made legal. Now that it is legal in some states, how long will it take for people to start forgetting to get married and for it to die down and wither away? I believe that many people will basically say screw marriage. In the current day, unlike a decade ago, single or bachelor living is now hip. Getting married is considered uncool or for the lonely now, and if younger gay couples think like many younger straight couples than gay marriage will eventually die down. As for the protestors against gay marriage, relax it will die down eventually. This leaves the question of should fads be started if when ended can hurt somebody's feelings or kill their beliefs?