1 - A mock tournament and good luck signs

The stadium was packed with spectators. The first match between team Blood Moon and the Bladebreakers was about to start. The match was Lunagi V.S. Tyson. Lunagi smiled at her teammates. "Good luck, Luna" she heard Mokira call out to her as she took her stance, ready to launch her blade. Tyson came out and the spectators cheering turned into an uproar. Lunagi spat, she wasn't sure what Teya saw in this guy, but his ego could surely fill a room. Soon the match started and Lunagi wiped Tyson out with no problem. She went over to her teammates as they announced the next match, Max V.S. Reika. The match went over almost as quick as the first, only this time Reika lost. She had a dejected look on her face as she walked over to talk to her teammates. "You did good, Reika-san" Mokira said, in a soothing voice just as they announced the next match, which was Mokira V.S. Kai. Mokira got up and headed over to her side. She looked over her shoulder and saw her teammates rooting her on. And as she turned to face down Kai, she saw a small pink butterfly flying past the crowd. Remembering what Reika said about butterflies being good luck signs she turned with a new hope of winning. They both released the blades and the match began. Mokira's blade continually avoided getting hit and slammed Kai's blade a bit before it seemed he was getting serious and seemingly predicting her every move. Now it was her turn to get serious. She called forth her bit-beast and slammed into him hard. Of course Kai returned the favor and called forth his bit-beast. Soon the clash was so heated that the sparks about blew apart the stadium. The match ended with Mokira as the victor. Mokira smiled, dirty from the dirt that was flying from the blast and hair down, due to her hair ribbons bust during the confrontation. She had to admit, no one had ever got her to blade as hard as he had.....LATER, at the Blood Moon HQ((Texas place)) Mokira sighed as she tied her hair in a new pair of ribbons. "Taht was amazing, Moki-chan" She heard Lunagi saying, but all her thoughts were on Kai. Wonder if I'll see him again she pondered to herself. She felt a cool breeze blow her hair back and a small smile appeared on her face, after all they had won the mock tournament.
