SOUTH AFRICA
PART 1.

Watch as the sun glares; down from the heavens,
Listen as the cicadas chirp, increasing the heat
Of the midsummer dayse,
See the creatures stalking and the critters watching;
Through the perishing luscious grass,
Listen carefully and you can hear the heat flaring.

Ensnounce yourself in the tall grasses
That smell so sickly sweet
Close your eyes
Feel the heat
Permeate your skin
As you listen to the tepid zephyr of wind.

Clouds evanesce and swim
Through this sphere that we live in,
Behold the birds as they soar
Through this way of life
That is so beautiful beyond comparison.

Imprint these images in you memory,
Put your mind at ease,
Relax your muscles,
Breathe,
For you are in a beautiful country,
That you will never forget.
