ReBoot is a computer-animated show
Developed in Canada about a decade ago
It's about people who live inside your computer
Nulls, binomes and sprites, even your own character
The place where they all live is called Mainframe
It once had a twin with the same name
This system is divided into six different sectors
With a principal office located in its center
The Command.com owns Dot's Diner
The fastest food for any Mainframer
Besides it being home to the local city dweller
Two viruses have also once resided here
Another local resident is their guardian
Who protects his home, the entire system
He goes into games battling against the user
Otherwise nullification will befall the loser
Once he's inside the game, he taps his icon
He reboots then wins the game to save everyone
In the end, Mainframe is located within the net
So please watch ReBoot, it's the best show yet!
