1 - Can I be Alone?

A girl walked down the street from school quietly not letting anyone get in her way. Her long dirty blonde hair sat under her hat and the hat blocked everyone from seeing her dark green eyes and freckles. She heard something and shot around to see a kirema anima attacking some people in the park. She felt something come over her that she couldn't fight. She could never fight it when someone was in trouble. Before she knew it mouse ears and a tail were there and she was ready to fight. She sprinted to where the animas were and held up her berret. The black birds were attacking everyone and they started to come towards her. She didn't move and kept her ground. The mouse ears started to twitch as she jumped into the air holding the berret in front of her.

"Coconut Twister!" she yelled at the top of her lungs as a swirl of orange light started to form. It swirled around into a circle and went through the birds. The birds were gone and she landed on the ground looking at what she had done.

Some noise came from behind her that her ears picked up. Five girls stood there staring at her. One looked like a cat, then a bird, a tamarin, a porpoise, and finally a wolf. The cat stepped forward holding something in her hand that she kept at her side. She looked at them and turned around and started walking away slowly.

"Wait, who are you." the cat asked yelling at her.

She didn't answer but she whispered under her breath, "My name is Coconut Hirgoshi and who are you people?"

She started to sprint away from them until she reached her house. By then she had changed back to into her normal self. She didn't want to be a kangaroo rat or whatever she was anymore. She looked in the mirror knowing her mother wasn't home. She didn't have a real mother and the mother that she lived with she called "Pepper". She lived in a medium sized house but she used to live on the streets. She didn't like thinking about her mother and what happened to her.

"You look very tired, Coconut." Saffron hopped from her dresser and looked at her. When she had become half kangaroo rat or whatever Saffron followed her home and told her to save the world.

Coconut looked at her and turned on the TV. "I knew I would run into those Mew Mews sometime but I didn't think today. I thought I was all alone and I want answers."

Saffron hopped onto her lap, "Coconut you're not alone. Those girls could need you and I think you should talk to them. They mentioned something about Tokyo Cafe go there and meet them tomorrow."

"Fine, I just don't wanna be different anymore." she answered crawling under the covers and falling asleep. "I'm not alone anymore, I guess."

2 - Joining the Group

Coconut tiptoed into Cafe Mew Mew with her friends from her school trying not to be noticed. Her blonde hair was under her hat that was tipped to the side. She kept her messenger bag close to her. Her friends Rachel, Aimee, and Tassara dragged her in.

"Coco, why do you always have gloves on?" Rachel asked pulling Coconut's glove off.

"No reason...just there's a scar on my hand." she answered as she looked at the mark. She had gotten it the day after she was turned into half kangaroo rat or what she learned...a Mew Mew.

Ichigo walked to their table and saw Coconut's mark. She gasped a little bit and thought to herself.

"That's the girl!!! The one Ryou told us all about yesterday. She was the first Mew Mew but by accident. Ryou you idiot... I need to get her onto the team." Ichigo squeezed the notepad and had a zoned look on her face. Coconut and her friends looked at Ichigo. "Uhhh..Welcome to Cafe Mew Mew. I shall go get you some water." Ichigo said keeping it all together.

Ichigo stomped through the doorway where everyone was. She looked at Ryou ready to strangle him. He looked at her and then continued typing. Mint was sipping her tea as usual while the others were filling orders.

"The 6th Mew Mew is out there in the Cafe!" Ichigo shouted in a mocking voice.

Mint looked up from her tea, "Then we must find a way to bring her in here. Then we have to Convince her to Join the team. She is pretty powerful if she knocked us out."

Ichigo thought and grabbed Lettuce. "I need you to spill a strawberry sundae on the girl with the hat that's tilted to the side at Table 7."

Lettuce walked over to Table 7 and tripped spilling a Strawberry Sundae all over Coconut's skirt. Ichigo walked over to her casually. "I am so sorry for my employee spilling that on you. Let me take you to get cleaned up."

"Uhhhh...okay." Coconut murmured getting up slowly making sure to grab her messenger bag.

Ichigo lead Coconut by the wrist to the lab's door and opened it slowly letting Coconut in first. Coconut's sneakers clicked on the floor as she heard the door slam and lock behind her. Ichigo stood at the doorway looking at her. Coconut turned around to see people looking at her. She blinked and tried to open the door. Then Ryou walked up to her and grabbed her shoulder turning her around. She turned around fast looking at Ryou and her stomach flipped.
