

Zoro's sister

By Volo

Submitted: September 18, 2006

Updated: September 24, 2006

Zoro's evil younger sister Kaidala has joined up with the Straw Hat pirates, though after a discovery by our favourite hentai dog Nami she may be more than just an evil personality. Has Luffy unwillingly accepted a murderer into his crew, and what evidence did Nami and Robin uncover that would make Kaidala try and kill them? Meanwhile, what the hell is happening to Sanji, why isn't he fawning over the women like usual? Something is defiantly going wrong here, and the plot is thickening as the find out who Kaidala really works for.

Provided by Fanart Central.

<http://www.fanart-central.net/stories/user/Volo/39402/Zoros-sister>

| | |
|--|----------|
| Chapter 1 - Kaidala? Zoro? NANI?! | 2 |
| Chapter 2 - Pure Corruption | 4 |

1 - Kaidala? Zoro? NANI?!

Chapter One: Kaidala? Zoro?... NANI?!

It is another 'normal' day on the pirate ship, Sanji is fawning over Nami and Robin like usual, whilst Chopa and Usopp amuses themselves by torturing their newly found, pet sea turtle (that's right, turtle not turtle. A much more vicious form of a turtle that's spelt differently). Zoro sleeps in the crow's nest whilst Luffy hunts for something amusing to do. Luffy looks up at the crow's nest and seeing Zoro's bright green marimo head poking up over the side he stretches his arms and lands with a rather loud crash next to him, Zoro frowns and resists the temptation to get up and bash his captain's head to bloody oblivion. "ZOOORROOO~! Wake up damn you! I'm bored! The author isn't paying you to sleep all the time!" Luffy whined in his usual childish voice, Zoro ignores him pretending to be asleep and failing seeing as he's such a crap actor the author doesn't pay me anyway... he thought to himself so it doesn't really matter what I do... Luffy now growing impatient glares at Zoro for ignoring him, then after several hours of plotting he finally comes up with a plan, meanwhile while he was doing this Usopp has gotten the sea turtle attached to his abnormally long nose and runs around the deck in pain trying to get it off. Luffy creeps up behind Zoro who is STILL sleeping, a smug evil look over Luffy's face, Zoro stirs in his sleep oblivious to his captain sneaking up behind him "HEY! MARIMO! KUINA'S HERE!" Luffy bellowed, and thus which losing his voice completely "huh?... Kuina- AHHHH! shoot" Zoro exclaimed as he fell from the crow's nest, crash landing on the deck below and absolutely flattening Usopp, meanwhile Chopa almost cacks himself laughing and Sanji looking very pissed starts shouting at the now hoarse Luffy "HEY! IDIOT! DO YOU THINK FOR ONE SECOND YOU COULD BE QUITE?" Luffy lands down next to them looking resentful, he then attempts to speak, but it seems he is only mouthing the words because no sound is coming out. Sanji looks confused – his undeveloped brain can't handle more than one thing at once – "... I don't believe it... Luffy's lost his voice!" Nami said sounding rather excited "we'll have peace and quite for awhile!" she added Luffy glaring at her. A dark figure of a female appeared out of the shadows standing next to Zoro "geez... your crew is even more spastic than you described ... Zoro" she said grinning and stepping out into the light, her jet black hair falling loosely over her shoulders and her piercing red eyes eyeing Zoro with the slightest sense of mockery, Zoro looking a little surprised turned to face her "Kaidala? What are you doing here?" he asked, the rest of the crew looking puzzled in the background "what do you think idiot? You did ask me to visit didn't you?" she answered "oh yeh..." Zoro said looking a little embarrassed "I guess I did, I didn't expect you too come so quickly though... anyway it's been awhile... what is it now? 3 years? And you haven't change one bit" he added "neither have you" the woman answered "you still sleep 24/7 AND your still a stuck up bastard" she laughed slightly to herself Zoro glaring a little, he then god forbid it hugged her gently. Everyone else except the new woman looking completely dumb founded "WHAT THE HELL!" Sanji shouted, sounding either very pissed or very jealous "ZORO HAS A GIRL FRIEND!" "huh?" Zoro said "... you know love cook, it would be illegal in most countries for me and Kaidala to have that sort of a relationship" he added referring to the new girl as Kaidala, "well then who is she?" Sanji said looking at the two of them with suspicion "oh... nothing really, she's only my sister" Zoro said as if it was nothing, whilst the rest of the crew almost died.

A few hours later in the kitchen... "NANI!" Luffy exclaimed having now gotten his voice back and only just realizing who the girl was "ZORO HAS A SISTER!?" "gee your slow..." Kaidala said sighing, Sanji cooks at the stove after having gotten severely beaten up by Kaidala for trying to flirt with her – he'll know never to do that again, though I doubt that'll stop him – everyone else sits at the table, Luffy whining about dinner and other food related things to Sanji “you know, I can really see the resemblance between you two” Sanji said, a sly smile coming over his face “hmm....? You can? So your not completely oblivious to your surroundings then?” Kaidala said “YES, I can... for one your both stuck up bastards” Sanji said grinning slightly, his smile quickly vanishing as Kaidala’s hand came flying towards him and punching him in the face. “oww....” Sanji whined glaring at her but was interrupted by Zoro “so, what are you doing here anyway? As I said, I didn’t expect to see you this soon...” Kaidala turned to face Zoro and answered his question “well, I heard about what happened to Saga and how you joined a pirate crew, something you failed to mention in your letters” she said with the slightest sense of annoyance in her voice Zoro looking embarrassed by her tone “so, I’ve been having the usual numerous dealings with the authorities and the marines... they started to increase over the past year so I left the village with a new contract out around here” she said “hey wait, what kind of contract?” Usopp questioned her “oh just assassination... nothing major” she said waving her hand dismissively, meanwhile in the background Luffy is glaring at Sanji who hit him over the head with a massive frying pan for trying to steal the food. “WHAT~! ASSASSINATION! YOU’RE AN ASSASSIN!” Usopp yelled, before Sanji interrupted him “shut up idiot, now ... is it just me or do all assassins seem to be beautiful sexy females?” he said pondering to himself before being punched in the face again by Kaidala. There was another one of those long silences, which Luffy broke surprisingly by something remotely intelligent “so, will you stay with our crew until you find your murder victim? Please? Oh and by the way who are you going to kill?” Kaidala responded by saying “yep I guess I will, I’ve got no where better to go... something I think I’ll regret. And whom I’m assassinating? Oh it’s no-one important... someone I bet you’ve heard of, he’s been giving all of us all little too much trouble lately... I trust your aware of who Captain Smoker is, no?” “Yeh... that male, porn freak, of a humanoid. We know who he is... though I wouldn’t suggest going after him alone, no matter how much more stealthy you have become you’ll still be in great danger just by entering the marine’s base” Zoro said in a stern more serious voice.

2 - Pure Corruption

Chapter Two Pure Corruption

It has been about a week since Zoro's sister Kaidala has arrived on the Straw Hat's pirates boat, with her own motives. Though most of the crew have welcomed her Nami is suspicious, so much as she has taken it into her own liberty to search Zoro and Kaidala's room (Nami refused to let Kaidala sleep in the girl's cabin and she couldn't exactly sleep with the rest of the male crew so they decided to let Zoro and Kaidala share the guest room seeing as Zoro is her brother and therefore is the least likely to abuse her in the way a man might, not saying that the others might of course)

The heavy wooden door creaked open and Nami slipped inside the guest room, her eyes narrowed searching the room, approaching the cabinet next to the desk taking care not to make any noise. She lifted the lid of the container and as an automatic reaction clamped her hand over her mouth to stop herself from screaming, what she had seen in that container was too horrible to even think about. There are skeletons and undead things with the flesh decaying of their reanimated bones who are less horrible and repulsive to look at. The content of the cabinet was amidst other trinkets and baubles a bottle, containing a bottle of vile smelling liquid. The label read 'Zoro's secret green hair dye' at this point Nami was about to throw up and was wondering exactly what Zoro's natural hair colour was when she spotted another interesting item glinting in the moon light shining through the window, pushing aside the other items her fingers clasped around the hilt of the object. Hilt? Nami thought now & what's a weapon doing locked away in a box? Surely it should be with the rest of the weapons on the weapon rack in the storage area? Unless & it isn't meant for fighting or someone didn't want it discovered & she drew out the dagger, her eyes looking it over. The blade was pitch black as the night, small arcane symbols adorned the blade taking the form of depressions almost as if they were meant to be filled with something, like a kind of sacramental dagger. On the hilt of the blade carved into the cold metal where what seemed like words, though they were too difficult and complex for Nami to understand them or even decipher what language it was written in. She pocketed the dagger, intrigued by what purpose it might serve and decided she would ask Robin or someone in the next city they would come across to try and translate it.

The sun broke over the horizon, dawning the beginning of a new day. Zoro stumbled into the kitchen lazily where the rest of his crew were, still having a hang over from last night's drinking championships. Sanji glared at him harshly angry for letting himself be so severely beaten by his marimo head enemy during their sculling duel in front of all those hot women. Nami was unusually quiet for a change her skin a deathly pale; though she wouldn't show it she was still disturbed by last night's events when she had snuck into Zoro and Kaidala's room whilst everyone else was out getting drunk. Nami? Are you ok? You don't look so good & Chopa questioned her it's nothing & really Nami re-assured him, geez & don't go getting grand line fever again because I'm not going to another winter island and freezing my arse off to save you again Sanji said rather crudely, surprising even himself that he said something that harsh to his beloved navigator. A dull silence swept over the room after Sanji's remark, before Kaidala broke it still angry from last night's events at the tavern in the nearby town and exactly HOW much alcohol did you two drink? she said addressing Sanji and Zoro, Zoro still not sober enough to speak for himself and Sanji had taken to avoiding Kaidala completely since she had arrived for reasons even unknown to himself let alone the rest of the crew, so Usopp answered for them just be glad this isn't some freakish dubbed version by 4 kids, then they'd be drinking prune juice and they'd both be shooting themselves the whole day he said whilst tinkering with his many gadgets. Kaidala looked at her brother with his hang over and continued her protest honestly! I can't believe you sometimes Zoro, getting that drunk last night! Zoro looked up lazily, his eyes bloodshot, and his speech slurred as if he was still drunk but... youuuu& me&.. sister? &.. yes you&. my sister& You& look after when& I & trouble&. His remark was quickly responded with Kaidala's harsh imposing voice YOU'RE the older brother Zoro! YOUR meant to look after ME, not the other way around. Besides what did you want me to do? Go up and explain to that girl you kissed that you weren't actually the baron of Krilia like you said you were, and then explain to the bar tender that you actually weren't a prostitute nor a stripper? wait& Sanji interrupted Zoro kissed a girl? Kaidala left her brother alone, easing her glare and looking over at the cook, who had now begun to feel strange under her gaze yes& unfortunately& my god forsaken brother has a bad habit of kissing randoms when he gets drunk she said still sounding both aggravated and pissed. The subject was then dropped probably to save Zoro any further embarrassment by mentioning when he had cross-dressed last night and managed to get a man to hit on him. Aside this, something was going on in Sanji's mind and he didn't like it. He never really had thought of a woman except for how she looked so he didn't know the real feeling of love, but since Kaidala had arrived he had begun to feel awkward inside, and tried to avoid her as much as possible. He feared her, but he couldn't pinpoint why, combine this with his recent lack of interest for all other females made one very unhappy shooty cook.

The day bore on, Zoro sobered up and trained his sword fighting skills against Luffy who had been convinced it was some sort of game where he had to steal Zoro's swords by using his Devil Fruit powers, Usopp continued to work on his Sea Turtle catching device, Chopa watching both amazed and interested. Robin read one of her many books and Kaidala ended up sitting in the only free space next to Sanji who was both too petrified and unsure of exactly what to do. Nami approached Robin, glancing hesitantly over at everyone else particularly Kaidala. Robin& could you have a look at this for me? I was wondering if you could translate it& or at least find out what tongue it's written in she said, pulling up a chair and sitting herself down next to Robin. Nami handed Robin the dagger her fingers trembling and her breathing rapid, after only a quick glance over it Robin recognized the writing Nami& where'd you get this? Nami looked up alarmed thinking she was being accused and quickly thought of a lie I& I.. I ummm& I found it& yes I found it in one of the latest ruins we were exploring I know your lieing, Nami Robin said, smiling warmly as Nami's face began to heat up not only because we haven't been to any ruins that would contain Arcane artefacts nor would you be able to find this kind of an object any where we've been, I know you stole it, you do that a lot don't you? Well& tell me when your ready, whoever you stole it from is& somewhat dangerous she finished, her voice sounding more serious now huh? Why? Nami questioned her because these symbols are written in Blood Elven, an ancient language used by the elves, though only by an evil sub race, like the Drow, Blood Elves lust for not only the destruction of beauty but the very foundations of it, the mages of these people usually try and turn themselves into Liches to cheat death. The only difference between them and the Drow is that Blood Elves have no sense of moral or any sense of lawful or righteousness about them, they are usually considered the most evil race, more so than the undead. And this isn't half of the worst part, even without translating the main part of this I can recognize parts of it& whoever had this in their possession is no ally of us, she or he is a Pale Master& the most corrupt and evil of all the possible professions, they are both powerful spell casters, and they worship the undead. Making them almost impossible to kill for their only weakness is divine magic and Blood Elves are highly resistant to most spells and simple weapons, they could cast a spell and you'd be dead in a flash, they are also usually assassins and it is against both the laws of the Mages Council* and the laws of the marines& not mentioning the fundamental laws of nature. I'll give it back after a few days& I should have it translated by then Nami took in all of what Robin said, a sick feeling brewing in her gut, maybe she working for the Mages Council and really isn't one& she thought maybe she's only a mage who is taking back the artefact so they can examine it& but why would she be going after one of the highest ranking marines then? And why is she an assassin& the Mages guild are meant to have an alliance with the marines& I can only hope it isn't true she tried to reassure herself, wondering if Zoro actually knew what a corrupt evil sister he might have. And if she was a pale master, what would they do? Expose her? No& she'd kill them without hesitation. For now Nami would have to wait and let the events unfold&

*Mages Council: A small group of powerful mages, one representing each school of magic: Divination, Necromancy, Invokation, Transmutation, Illusionism, White Magic and Black Magic, and one all powerful mage known as the Arch-Mage There is one other forbidden school of magic known best as a prestige class: Pale Masters, worshipping the undead and serving their need they usually turn into them, choosing this path will lead to the smouldering world of death. It is forbidden for Arcane spell users to practise this magic and all known Pale Masters are sought out by both the mages guild and the marines whom they have a strong alliance with. It is rumoured that there is another mage their known as the Silencer that doesn't represent any of these schools of magic, it is rumoured that this person is like the Arch-Mage's own personal mercenary. Though the Council has never confirmed these rumours and they refuse to speak of it. Though they will know of its truth.