Chapter 1 The Start

"Mom, I'm going hunting!" I shouted "Okay dear, bring Toki along too, but remember stay on our land and do not venture into the Wolf Village's area!" "Yes Mother! Come Toki, we are hunting today!" Toki flew up to me and landed on my arm. You see, Toki is my eagle all the people in my village, the Eagle Village, own at least one eagle. My father Okinoto, (O-kin-O-to) owns five because he is the chief. Now that that is cleared up back to the story, I walked along the hunting path until I came to my favorite clearing, the one with the apple tree in the middle. I said to Toki, "Come on I'll race you to the top!" I threw my arm up in to the air as a sign to Toki that he may fly now. He spread his wings and gracefully, with two flaps, easily landed on top of the apple tree. I quickly climbed up behind him and said "You ready to hunt?" He shook his head "No". "Are you saying you made me come all this way for nothing?" I asked, him he shook his head "No" "Oh I know you want, the bear meat I saved for you last night?" I pulled a big chunk of thick bear meat from the bag that hung around my head. "This is what you want isn't it?" He shook his head "Yes" and spread his wings, almost knocking me from my branch "Wow, that was a close one" I muttered "You have got to be more careful Toki! I said. I then threw him the piece of meat. "Toki,..." I started then I stopped, there was rustling in a bush in front of us. I moved my head quietly toward Toki and whispered in his ear, "Go see what is down there!" He open his wings and slowly but powerfully glided down to the ground in front of the bush, and I came down out of the tree. I slowly walked over to the bush stood straight up and said "Show yourself!" Then a scared little wolf pup with his tail between his legs walked up to me and layed down. "The poor little thing!" I said aloud "Toki, stay here I am going to run back to the village to get him some food and water, take him up to the top of that tree and watch him. I pointed to the apple tree. Then I started running toward my village and thought, "Maybe he is from the wolf village, I'll go there tomorrow." When I returned to the clearing Toki brought down the pup and landed right in front of me he stood straight in front of me and came eye level with me. "Wow," I thought "Golden Eagles are really beautiful! I looked in his eye and saw a girl, at first I thought it was me but then she started to yell

"Waku! Waku! Where are you? Oh, I'll have to go home soon! Please come out little pup! Please? Where are you? Don't worry I'll come and look for you tomorrow! Bye!"
"Wow, maybe I won't have to go to her village," I thought "I'll just stay here all day tomorrow! I fed the pup the meat I had brought to him and he eagerly ate it up I took him to the stream to drink then I took him to a little cave and said don't worry, I'll be back tomorrow! I ran home and saved at least two pounds of meat. Later that night I told my Mother that I wanted to walk around the outside of our hunting grounds so that I may become familiar with it. She said

"That is a very good idea I suppose you will be gone a long time right?" I nodded and she said that that is okay and that I can stay out for days if I want as long as I send Toki back with note so that she can send me supplies.

"In the morning there will be a backpack with food and other supplies in it and you are to take it with you. Good night Eve."

"Good night mom." I said. I went to sleep with a knowing that an adventure awaits me tomorrow.
