1 - THE NEW BEGINNING

In an alternative universe, in a time when the science of alchemy allows the reshaping of all imaginable, a young Alchemist seeks out a fabled Philosopher's Stone in hopes that it will undo the damage that was done to him and his younger brother. But his quest will not be easy, as many have tried to find the stone, but all have failed[

2 - a start

Ed what r doing im going to try a transmutation but im not sure that it will work and there no telling what will happen if its not done correct it could be devastating but it could be dangerous {al said} well if u want mum back we have to master transmutation ok let do ok they said together the circle started to glow blue that's good said al but its not over yet .then all said with the power of this stone may u bring back what I have lost for it was a grave event then it all went quiet then there was a loud scream it must be al said ed I cant stop now im to far he said but the screaming didn't stop there so he looked over at ed ooh no screamed ed there it was al's leg was no wear to be found al screamed brother help me if u don't stop me from bleeding I will die so then ed did a transmutation spell not knowing what would happen but it was the only choose so ed starting with these words may u give my brother a new start for he did not no what he was doing then there was a loud bang it went clear then he soar a metal figure what or who could this be so he walked over then the voice inside the metal suit screams brother your all right is that really u what don't u reckon nise me well your in a metal suit no im not take a look for your self so he did and with shock he said how don't u remember the transmutation went wrong so I had to to do a spell to bring u back and this is what u are im sorry its ok u didn't know what would happen
