0 - The begging of the end

This is the tale of the end of the world everyone belevived that the world was flat until a few hundred years ago but no one ever knew that there was a unknow portal which could lead the person who went into it anywhere in time they wanted to go, evan into the future or the past, but there was one problem about this was once you went into there was noway to get back to the time you came from therefore being trapped in space and time for ever.
