1 - ~The Thirteen Ghosts~

In 2009, Amelia was wounded from her battle against Dracula. Her seventh assigned father, Dr. Victor Frankenstein, had her on his back. He was able to carry her by her weight. He could not find anyone in her assigned families that could help them. Everyone except the Thirteen Ghosts.

"Natasha, are you sure you want to do this?"

"Yes, I'm sure."

They were in. He took a look around and asked Amelia, "Where are they?"

"Down stairs in the basement. Are you sure you want to go down there, though?"

"Natasha, you're in no condition to walk. Don't push yourself."

"I know but--"

"No, Natasha, you don't know."

After for those three minutes, she was silent after what Victor just said.

"Father, reach into my left pocket there should be some glasses."

"Natasha, I'm not blind!"

"I know, but these glasses are not just any ordinary glasses. It lets you see these ghosts."

He put Amelia down to the ground against the wall, he found the glasses, and put them on. Then, as he was putting Amelia back on his back, he saw one of the thirteen ghosts; The Jackal.

"I can fight him. I can--"

"No, Natasha, I said you're in no condition."

"Are you worried about my condition? Just because I have a bad condition, it doesn't mean that I still can't fight."

"No, means, no, Natasha."

Amelia became furious. She got off of his back and stood at the middle of the floor.

"Natasha, get back over here, now!"

"Lasi. . . kashime!!!"

A big burst of light came out of Amelia's hand, while Victor covered his eyes. But then, The Juggernaut, came and made Amelia and Victor run in separate ways. Then Amelia came upon nine of the ghosts: The Juggernaut, The Jackal, The Hammer, The Pilgrimage, The Torso, The Bound Woman, The Angry Princess, The The Great Child, and Dire Mother. Amelia ran as fast as she could, fell on her knees, and screamed as loud as she could. Then, when The Hammer came towards Amelia, she said aggressively, "Stay...away from me." Then she looked at The Hammer furiously and continued, "STAY AWAY FROM ME!!!" Then she attacked him with Chidori (which she knows that metal conducts electricity) and sparks ran through his whole body and he fell down at her feet as the other nine ghosts looked at her scared. She turned around and looked at them furiously. They just stood there and did not move.

"If you all wish to kill me one day...foster your hatred in me and despise me...by all means flee clinging my wretched lives. As if you can ever kill me. No one can kill an undead dragon like myself. Not even all of you. So do not even try to kill me. Do you all understand me?"

They all nodded their heads yes and vanished. But Amelia was not buying that at all.

"Royce."

"Yes, Selene?"

"I want you to keep an close eye on those nine. Is that clear?"

"Of course, ma'am. And...welcome back,...Selene...as also known as the Willing Sacrifice...and also...the thirteenth ghost."

She let out a smirk and chuckled.

"It's feels good to be back, Royce. I had a question to ask you. But I'll wait until you're done with your job for today. And also, do not, I repeat, do not kill the intruder that is in this house. He's my seventh assigned father, Dr. Victor Frankenstein. Understood?"

"But, Selene, we--"

"I lost him once, Royce. I am not losing him again! Because he's the only family and friend that I have left!"

He understood by what she went through. So he nodded his head as his agreement and she smiled at him.

"Please, can tell that to the other ghosts, too while I search for my father?"

"Yes. I will do that."

She smiled and turned away.

"Thank you, Royce."

2 - Knowing The Truth: Sacrifice

When she was looking for Victor, she saw him with The Hammer.

“Father? Father!!”

Then The Torn Prince grabbed a hold of her. He tried to get her out of there so she would not see Victor’s death, but she struggled violently to break free.

“Father, just what do you think you are doing?! Do you want to git yourself killed?!”

He did not answer, but he looked away from her position. Then she said with her voice cracked up and tears running down her face, “Father.” She looked down at the ground and cried. The Torn Prince let her go and Amelia looked at him with tear-stained eyes. Then she looked on the ground and thought years ago.

(Inside of her memory):

“Father, what did I look like as a baby?”

“Well, you were so little, that I could hold you in my hands. You mite have been little, but you had a vary strong grip.”

They both laughed.

“Father, can I promise you something?”

“Yes, what is it?”

“Well I want to promise you two things. One is that I will not stop until I succeed.”

Victor smiled at her and added, “And the second one?”

“The second one... is that I will always protect you and mother. Even if it costs me my life.”

Victor smiled at her once more. But this time with tears in his eyes. Amelia wiped his tears from his eyes and smiled. And he smiled as well.

(Outside of her memory):

Then she became furious with Victor and when she banged her hand onto the floor almost breaking the glass, all three of them jumped. She got up from the ground looking at him furiously. He looked at her as well. Then just when she was just about an inch out of the room, The Torn Prince asked her, “Wait, what about him?” She looked at Victor and he looked at her. Then, she looked away and responded, “Do not kill him. JUST LEAVE HIM HERE TO DIE!!!!” Victor could not belive it. Even if it was coming from his one and only daughter, family, and friend that he had left. She was all that he had left. Then she stormed out of the room and The Torn Prince and The Hammer vanished. Victor stould up and tears came out of his eyes.

“Natasha.”

(Later):

“There’s a hole in the world like a great black pit and it’s filled with people who are filled with crud and the vermin of the world inhabit it.”

Then The Angry Princess came up to her.

“Leave me alone. I am not mood.”

The Angry Princess became furious. When she tried to kill her, Amelia grabbed her throat, took her nife, and put it under her throat.

“Listen carefully because I am only going to say this once, leave me alone and let me do what I came here to do. Understained?”

She knode her head yes. Amelia let her go, gave back her nife forcibly, and walked away. She went to "The Eye of Hell", stould in the middle and sat down (she had her knees up against her and arms around her legs). "Sarah," The Torn prince replied, "I'm afraid I have some bad news. Your father...is dead. Someone in here killed him."

"Who killed him? WHO KILLED HIM?!"

The Great Child raised his hand with a evil smile. Amelia was furious and The Juggernaut and The Torn Prince held on to her. The Torn Prince looked at The Great Child and asked him with anger, "What have you done? WHAT HAVE YOU DONE?!"

She repeat over and over again with tears in her eyes, "I'LL KILL YOU!!!! I'LL KILL YOU!!!!!"

Amelia broke free and attacked The Great Child who still had that smile on his face. "WIPE THAT SMILE OFF YOUR FACE!!" she ordered. And he did. She calmed down and led him go. She turned around and walled towards the wall. She banged the wall and said, "Leave." Everyone left except for The Torn Prince, The Wethered Lover, and The First Born Son. They knew that she was mad. She slid down onto the floor and cried her eyes out. The Torn Prince walked towards her and she looked up at him with a scared-like face. He sat next to her, picked her up, put her on his lap, and hugged her to calm her down.

3 - The Return Of Victor Frankenstein

"Selene, I know your upset."

She acted and looked like she did not even hear him. He sighed and said, "How about this, if you find your father's body, we can bring him back. I promise you"

She smiled at him with excitement and knode her head. She got up and ran to find Victor's body. Then she found his body. But, she wanted to stay with him. Moments later, when she was asleep, The Torn Prince found her with Victor's body.

"The Hammer."

"Yes?"

"I found her."

He pointed where she was. The Torn Prince carried Amelia and The Hammer carried Victor. The Hammer settled Victor in the middle of the 'Eye Of Hell' as The Torn Prince set Amelia down comfortably against the glass wall trying not to wake her up and joined the other ghosts. Then Amelia opened her eyes and stould up. She saw Victor in the middle of the 'Eye Of Hell'. A white light lit from every ghost. Amelia walked back, because she thought that Victor would not come back. But then, the big white light white came into him. He opened his eyes, stould up, and looked at Amelia.

"Natasha."

She gasped, stopped, and turned around. He smiled at her and so did Amelia but with tears of joy coming down her cheeks.

"F-father?"

He knode his head yes. She made even a bigger smile.

"Father!"

She ran towards him and hugged him. All of the twelve ghosts looked at them and smiled. They held each others hands to help them to get out of there safely. The wrightings on the wall glowed. Victor looked around, looked at Amelia, and then held on tight to her. Then a big white light rapped around them and they, safely, got out of the house.

"Father, can I ask you a question?"

"What is it?"

"Is it alright that I can go on your back again?"

He looked at her and smiled.

"Alright."

He put her on his back and then continued walking.

"Thank you, father."

He said nothing, but he just smiled. And there was one thing that they had that no one else does; they have a greater bond then anyone elses.
