THE ANGEL'S MISSING HEART A KINGDOM HEARTS STORY

PREQUEL

The origin of mega

This log shall contain the daily events of our watch over the worlds we gods know. This log is in possession of Hikari, Kurayami, Yami, Seidaku, and Natalishia, the gods of all universes.

Log entry 1

My mind has been troubled for quite sometime. Through all of these universes, there is but one world that is of great need of help. It is a barren wasteland that is always dark. No amount of magic we use is able to penetrate the darkness that surrounds this world. It's as if there is a force field that forbids things to either leave or enter. Hikari tells me everyday that she can hear the cries of help coming from the children trapped there. My heart feels as if there are indeed people who are calling for help. We call this world, Darkness Hold. We must do something, for the lives of all those who cannot escape the gaze of the darkness' spell.

Log Entry 2

Today, we had a meeting about Darkness Hold. The main topic was to think of an idea to help shed light upon it. We searched through hundreds of books that might have a spell strong enough to do away with the darkness on ALL worlds. Kurayami finally remembered a book she read along time ago and brought it out. She found a special page that had a very powerful spell. The spell would create a guardian that would watch over all dimensions and bring its special element to all worlds. The spell was perfect. We shall create a guardian of light. The special power they will bring will keep us all in the watch of the light.

Entry 3

The spell that will give us a guardian is very complicated. The spell requires that we combine our powers in the correct and exact moments on the night of the Silver Harvest Moons. Since this is in only a week, we have practiced until we collapse in unconsciousness. Kurayami keeps asking why we do this if it practically kills us, and I remind her that it's for all the innocent. Although she may scoff, she means well, I know. One night, I went to see the one we chose to grant the powers on. Every time I look into her empty eyes, I remember what Hikari told me, "She may act and look like everyone else, but her heart and mind will not. She will have no memories to recall of her past. She will not know her origins."
