Chapter 1 - Radio guy

2

1 - Radio guy

One day after walking a mile to school in the rain (But luckily with a good friend so it wasn't as bad as it could be) i was feeling really depressed. The school library was closed that day and i had nothing to do except sit in a partially covered area complaining with my friends. About ten minutes before the bell rang this guy named Alex walked out the lunch room door. HE had hidden a radio in his back pack and was playing every time we touch. Every body was laughing and this guy came and looking to stir up more laughs followed Alex and started humping him from behind. That just made my day. Two days later i saw Alex again in the morning and he was playing his radio loud and clear. I broke down laughing again and every one around me did the same thing. Except one guy. HE called out that the principal was coming. Alex then just started running to the song every time we touch. IT was great.
