Chapter 1 - static

2

1 - static

static

people pass by with the rosey red cheeks and theyr can you hear me nows wered all the family oreinted fun go?? i dont know but i know all i hear is static!

every were you go its buy this ill sell you that i just sit there with a sad smile on my face what is happining with the human race?? i try to talk to you but all i get is static!

people beside me im trapped computers on one side and cell phonmes on another all along i must be mistaken coz i thought all we needed was eachother living breathing touching screaming wer all robots each one like another i try to break through but all i run into is static!

people against us all along i try to run to you but my broken heart just wont let loose all this pain i tried to kill it with beer liquore and wine but its just no use i guess all the broken promises were a sign to behold our future many lies left untold whats to become of our story what hate is about to unfold i try to change what is about to become but all i see is static people trying to get inside me trying to figure out my being what the hell about me is so appealing when is the winds of change going to free me?? i jsut want to be me oh how its tragic stumbling through all this static chorus: oh whats the matter with the world today people pass me by saying theyr hellos and good byes everything is messed up becoz your gone when is everything going to be okay?? everybody speaks with acid coated lies hold on now things are going to get rough when are we ever going to have enough?? things are not okay today i had to let you go but theres so many things youll never know all this static making people brain dead killing deciving giving tumors in your head people zombified now, and i lost you in all this static.....
