

Claire

By Ladaya_Solo

Submitted: July 4, 2005

Updated: July 4, 2005

O.k. I'm bad with titles. Anyhoo, this is a poem I wrote about my best friend. Please R&R (Read and Reveiw)

1. The Poem

She Lights up my world

A bit of a Tomboy but proud to be girl

We might as well be joined at the hip

We go so many places together

You'd swear she was my sis

You know I wouldn't change

One single thing about her

Heaven knows I can't smile with out her

Best person there has ever been

My best friend

Two year difference

But who gives a darn

What we do, you'd be alarmed

Are own Radio show

That's just plain silly

Stupid stories

Where people

Talk like Hillbillies

Share strange dreams

That make no sense

Then Laugh about them

For minutes on end

You know I wouldn't change

One single thing about her

Heaven knows I can't laugh with out her

Best person there has ever been

My best friend

My dearest friend

I'm sorry if I ever

Thought of you

As less than you are

You're one of the greatest people

To walk this earth

By Far

You know I wouldn't change

One single thing about you

Heaven knows I can't live with out you

Best person there has ever been

My best friend

Claire

Well, that's it, what do you think? Not great literature but one of MY best I worked real hard on it. Heee-heee Word keeps trying to grammatically correct my work. It has no eye for poetic license. Reminds me of once I was typing Annabel Lee by: Edgar Allan Poe for school, Word kept trying to correct it. It thought it should be "My Annabel Lee and I" instead of "I and my Annabel Lee". Trying to "correct Poe.... _ riiiiight. Anyhoozers Bout my poem, it was longer but I cut it down. Please comment and tell me you're thoughts.