Two poems that Zim and Dib made for eachother

1. You said yes

You said yes

Dib carefully made his way to Zim in the lunchroom. Zim didn't notice him until he dropped a piece of paper on his tray and quickly left. Zim looked at it. It was a poem:

When we were enemies I asked if you hated me

You said yes

When we were allies I asked if you would trust me

You said yes

When we were friends I asked if you like me

You said yes

When we were here at the creek I asked if you loved me

You said yes

That's how I remember our first kiss.....

I love you, Zim

After lunch was over Dibs sat down at his desk and saw his poem. He looked over at a smirking Zim. Dibs read it over and saw another one from Zim:

I never really hated you

It was all a lie to get through

You always interest me

In more ways than you can see

I fell in love with you before there was anything I could do

So now...

Dibs, I love you too

Dib looked over at Zim and smiled.Zim smiled back.This was the beging of a very beautiful relationship.
