Jeremy sat at the computer, watching his friends in Lyoko.

"Jeremy! We have to get to Sector 5!" Ulrich yelled.

Jeremy started to type in the word Scipio when a huge wire came loose from the computer and smacked the keyboard. It typed something unintelligible. Jeremy picked up the wire carefully, and accidentally pressed Enter.

=====

Ulrich, Aelita, Yumi, and Odd were wondering what was taking Jeremy so long when the transporter came down to take them to Sector 5.

But when they got out of the transporter, they found they weren't in Sector 5. It didn't even look like they were anywhere in Lyoko. They landed in a patch of bushes, and they heard voices a few feet away.

"Fine! If you're not gonna do your job!" A teenaged boy with a ponytail knocked down a tent and was yelling at a girl that looked like she was his sister.

Another girl sat a few feet away in a tent that looked like it was made of...dirt. A bald boy with an arrow on his head rolled his eyes like the two people fought all the time.

Odd decided to make the first move. "Excuse me, but where is this?"

The bald boy looked up. "Uh...we're in the middle of the Earth Kingdom, a few miles from Ba Sing Sai."

Wow, that really cleared things up. "But...how far are we from France?"

"What's a france?" The ponytailed boy asked.

"Never mind!" Odd walked back through the bushes.

"That was...weird." Ulrich observed.

"So...anybody got any idea how we get back?" Yumi asked.

"No." Aelita, Odd, and Ulrich answered at the same time.

=====

"I wonder who that guy was." Aang said.

"His clothes were weird." Sokka stated.

"So was his hair. It was light colored and it had...purple." Katara said.

"I wonder where he went." Aang speculated.

"He's about 20 feet away, in the bushes." Toph answered.

=====

Okay, so it just started. It's kinda stupid...but it'll get better...I hope.

2. Where's Odd?

OMG I had SIX reviews!!!!!! It was so kew!!!!!! So, I decided to update!

Disclaimer: I do not own Avatar or Code: Lyoko.

Also, if anyone was confused, Yumi, Ulrich, Aelita, and Odd are in their Lyoko outfits and they are 2D.

=====

Maybe they know where Lyoko is. Aelita pointed out.

I'll go ask them. Odd offered. He got up out of the bushes and went over to the four kids.

Have you ever heard of Lyoko?

Um&no. Sorry. The bald boy looked at them strangely. Where are you guys from?

=====

Odd ran back to the group. Run!

They stood up and started running in the opposite direction of the strange kids. They stopped when they saw a bulletin board with a picture of the bald kid they had seen. But they couldn't read the weird letters below the picture. But it was obvious it was a WANTED poster.

Everyone suddenly turned around when somebody burst out of the underbrush. It was an old man, followed closely by a strange creature that looked like a cross between a bird and a horse. Behind that thing was a boy with short brown hair and an awful red scar across his eye.

When they saw the Lyoko team, they looked at them strangely and turned around. But Yumi stopped them.

Wait! Do you know where we are?

We're a few miles from the Earth Kingdom capital Ba Sing Sai. The old man looked at them like they were nuts.

That wasn't really very helpful. It was basically the same answer the bald boy had given them.

=====

The strange people wouldn't let them leave. What are your names? asked the pink haired girl. How did she get her hair pink?

I'm Li, and this is my uncle Mushi. Zuko said quickly, giving the same names they had given when they were with Song.

Yes, but he was named after his father, so we just call him Junior. Iroh finished the story.

Suddenly the pink haired girl looked really scared and worried. Where s Odd?

All the strange children looked around frantically. Then they ran away screaming, Odd! Odd, where are you?

=====

Okay, it was the best I could come up with for right now. At least I m updating faster than most people on this site!

3. An Alliance

Yes, I know, I haven't updated in forever! But I had a severe case of writer's block, and now I'm back!

Odd groaned. He had tripped over a tree root! Because the forest was so dense, he now had no idea where his friends were.

This is great! I'm stuck in a weird place called the Earth Kingdom, and I don't know anyone here! Do my friends even know I'm gone? He thought worriedly.

He had to get away from that weird bald kid and his friends, though. He scrambled to his feet and ran directly away from where the bald boy was. He had only been running for a few minutes when he stumbled into a clearing with a dozen men running straight at him!

Aang, Katara, Sokka, and Toph were just getting over seeing (or sensing) the strangely dressed people when they crashed into the clearing again! Well, three of them, anyway. They seemed to be missing the strange boy with the yellow hair.

They all seemed worried. The pink-haired girl stepped forward. Have you seen Odd?

Aang stared, confused. Odd?

You saw him! He has yellow and purple hair and a cat's tail and he was with us last time! The girl with the black hair cried, frustrated.

His name is Odd? Sokka snickered.

Katara elbowed her brother. He's lost?

All four of them seem lost, Toph pointed out.

Katara gave her a look, then realized that the act was wasted on her blind friend.

Actually, she's right. We're lost; we have no idea where we are or how we got here! The boy admitted.

We told you: we're in the Earth Kingdom! Toph reminded them.

We don't know where the Earth Kingdom is! the black-haired girl cried hopelessly.

Where exactly are you from? Sokka asked.

Before we got here, we were in Lyoko. But we live in a place called France. It's in Europe. The Brown haired boy explained.

I'm sorry, but I have no idea what you're talking about, Katara said.

But we could help you look for your friend, Aang offered.

You don't think we're crazy? The pink haired girl asked.

Weirder stuff's happened to us, trust me, Sokka told her. Alright, we should split up to cover more ground. He can't have gotten far. Katara: you and pink-haired girl head east. Aang and brown-haired boy: West. Toph and black-haired girl: North. I'll go south. We meet back here.

The co-leader of the Gong-Zhang tribe was furious! A strange boy stumbling onto their field interrupted their first Redemption game!

It was supposed to be a spectacular game, too. Former Gong Jins versus former Zhaangs. Of course, the Zhaangs were winning! Until that boy stumbled in in the middle of the sacred game (he didn't care what the Avatar said, it was sacred)! The other co-leader didn't seem extremely happy, either. All twelve players ran over to the boy. The former Zhaang leader didn't care what the former Gong Jin Leader said. He wanted to beat the boy to within an inch of his life!

Yumi had been walking with the barefooted, blind girl for ten minutes, and there had been no words between them. Finally, she broke the silence.

So, what's your name?

Toph, the girl grunted.

My name's Yumi.

Toph nodded.

Are you really blind?

You might want to be quieter. There are thieves and firebenders in this forest. Of course, I'll sense their vibrations from a mile away.

You'll sense their what?

Crud! They're moving fast! They're almost on us! Quick, hide in those bushes!

Of course, they were thorn bushes. But she guessed Toph knew what she was talking about. She lived here, after all.

It wasn't until she was inside the bushes that she realized Toph was laughing so hard, tears were coming to her eyes.

Toph was hysterical! That girl-Yumi-was so gullible!

She stopped laughing abruptly when she felt a familiar vibration behind them. A second later, she heard the voice that went with the footsteps.

Well, well, isn't this cute. It was the girl that had been chasing them around before. Aang said her name was Azula.

She fought her best, but she was outnumbered. The last thing she remembered was the girl in pink-Ty Lee?- dragging Yumi out of the thorn bush.
