As this says, this is a poem in Yami's point of view just moments before being released from the puzzle.

Yami's POVP (point of view poem)

In the dark I waited
Until the day would come
When light would enter
Enriching my body with its soft glow.

I have been here for so long.
Waiting and hoping.
I have forgotten who I am
Who I was.
My mind screams in agony
Trying to hold onto the last bit of sanity that I have left.

It is lonely waiting here in the dark.
I am a bit ashamed to admit that I am actually frightened.
Not by the dark but from being alone.

Suddenly the dark is interrupted
By an irradiant light.
I am forced to shield my eyes against the light
As a figure slowly steps in.

"Hello."
A sweet, angelic voice called out.
"Who are you?"

I felt my heart skip a beat
As I was finally able to look up
At the face of the angelic voice.

"May name is Yami."

I reply no longer feeling the fear
Of being alone.

And realizing I was just given the chance
To a new beginning.
