MORE UNREPENTANT FLUFF! YAY!

Axel was by no means a morning person. He preferred to stay up until at least 3 o'clock, and sleep until at least noon. There wasn't really a reason as to why he was like this; he just had been for as long as he could remember, and he never had any incentive to wake up early, anyway.

When Roxas arrived at the Organization, however, his schedule began to change. He found himself awakening in the actual morning, rather than the early afternoon. As they grew closer, he found that Roxas was cheerful and energetic at what he considered to be unnatural hours. When they decided to share a room, however, Axel's opinion drastically changed. After all, the earlier he woke up, the earlier he'd be able to start his day with the sight of his love sleeping next to him.
