

My Own Story

By LordessAnnara14

Submitted: February 9, 2007

Updated: February 9, 2007

well, this was a thing i starting makind up about 3 years ago, and it sort f built up as they went by. i have made other stories up too, but this is the very first one i made. so, i put alot of work into it, so please, just enjoy it...

1. Red Fyer quick run through

Soul Fire

By Destiny Rattlesnake

there is another world called 'The Warring World' and it holds humans, and many spirits of good, and bad.

long ago, there lived a girl named Annara Kaykona, and she lived in a life of royalty. even though she was'nt human. Annara was the second Heir of The Great Fire Tribe leder, and was swarn from birth to train untill she was old enough to join the Tribe as second in command. Annara's older brother Asatara was fated to be the leader of the Fire Tribe on his 17 birthday, so like Annara, he had to train all his life for that day to come. Annara had lived in a village with humans. but this village was a hidden village in the Blue River Forest. Her father had swarn to the villagers, that the Fire Tribe would protect the village, in returne they live there. Annara's mother was a half spirit woman. she could allow her soul travel to the Spirit world, and back when ever she wanted.

Annara had two best friends named Mera Hakanaro, and Ninako Shinpakonan. Mera was a young nice hearted girl when she was found by Annara. but, when Annara's father recognizes the marks on the childs face, he knew what tribe she was from. but to everyones surprise, she has no memory of where she's from, or what happened. Mera has a mystic power, that is unknown, and is more likely to activate when she gets angry. Mera soon meets with Annara after 16 long years, and travels with her in her journeys. she soon meets a human boy named Shintaro. At first, know one knows his real name, where they all called him "mute", but Mera soon finds her-self sitting alone with Shintaro, and suddenly they start talking. but Shintaro makes Mera promise him that she won't tell anyone that Shintaro only talks to her.

Ninako acts tough as she can, trying to compete -secretly- with Annara. she handles her path with grace, exept the tree problem. which happened to be how Annara and Mera found Ninako when they were kids. Mera and Annara were just walking around in the Blue river Forest, when they suddenly see young Ninako fall out of a tree. Ninako was from a clan that lived far away from the Blue River forest. when she was a child, she was kid-naped, and taken to the out skerts of the Blue River Forest. the ones who kid-naped her, were killed by another tribe. Ninako was left alone, far away from home, when Annara and Mera found her.

one day, there was a war declairing. the humans wasnted to rid the land of these beasts, and the word spread far. all the Tribes and Clans prepaired for this day. Annara's father, Lord Kaykona, had to abandone his village, wife, and children. her went along with his tribe.

the war was long and crule. Ninako and Mera were seperated from eachother, and they were lost.

in tragity, Annara's father and tribe, were all destroyed. and, Annara was sent out of her house with her last posetions, her fathers blade, the Anibakuyan (Heavens Blade), and her nothers medicins and curse book. her mother was killed, and so was her village destroyed. in a last attempt, Annara released a forgotten wave of energy, that shocked accross the land, killing everything that ment harm to her.

now, 16 years later, Annara travels alone, with the medicine, and the Anibakuyan.

Annara soon meets up with a boy named Sedrey Onihoshi. he was a sworn protector, a Guardian. from child hood, he had been training to serve one purpose...to protect a young princess with his life, but as he soon finds out, the princess he was sworn to protect, was killed. now he doesn't know what to do. he soon bumps into Annara, who was being chased by some warriors who killed their leader (who happens to be Sedrey's father). Sedrey soon finds him-self nursing Annara back to strength after she collapsed from the lack of energy. Annara disagrees with the idea of him tagging along with her, but when he gives her a major clue on her father, she agrees with him.

Annara now travels, and battles with her new partner. even though they may seem to not like each other at first, they soon start feeling something for each other. Annara soon meets up with her old childhood friends, and they start traveling together. a group of 4 soon after turns into a group of 6 after meeting up with Kai Shinahimaru, and Shintaro Botsi.

Kai and Shintaro call each other " warrior brothers ". even though they are not blood related, they seem to be bonded. Kai is a cast away, abandoning his parents and siblings, to find his own place. even though he doesn't get along with Annara at all, he has a funny way of showing how he cares about Ninako, who claims she's madly in love with him.

at first, no one knows Shintaro's name, so they all call him "mute" , because the false life his village gave him. he accepted Kai as his brother, of loyalty. even though Kai wasn't human, and he was. as they all travel together, he soon finds him-self falling for the beauty and laughter of that of gitty Mera. they soon find each other alone, and the first to hear Shintaro's voice, is none other than Mera. but, Shintaro makes Mera promise him he will only talk to her, and that she can't tell anyone.

they go through many , and experience many.
and they travel together to keep strong.