

Lyrics to A Song I Wrote

By SasukesChick

Submitted: May 27, 2007

Updated: May 31, 2007

*These are lyrics to a song I wrote. It's called "Stop Loving You". *Please Comment

1. "Stop Loving You"

"Stop Loving You"

Sometimes I wish to fast forward through life.
Just like flash backs that have the blade of a knife.
Times of days I wonder if I could just skip,
In little pieces they would rip.

Just when I start to remember you,
Seeing me again, what would you do?

Would you wish for my heart to stop beating?
Would you ask your mind to stop thinking?
Just to kill a love that's true?
That's telling me to stop loving you.

Standing in the rain.
Wanting to stop the pain.
Crying and so lonely.
Dark and so chilly.

Just when I start to remember you,
Seeing me again, what would you do?

Would you wish for my heart to stop beating?
Would you ask your mind to stop thinking?
Just to kill a love that's true?
That's telling me to stop loving you.

Finally, I'll break through.
As if you never knew.
Looking up to the blue sky.
Finding that the earth's soul will never die.

The endings will end.
New beginnings lives will send.
Forgetting all the lies,
By staring into your eyes.

Just when I start to remember you,
Seeing me again, what would you do?

Would you wish for my heart to stop beating?
Would you ask your mind to stop thinking?
Just to kill a love that's true?

That’s telling me to stop loving you.