

Background Noise

By ChibiLee

Submitted: October 30, 2007

Updated: October 30, 2007

Ehhh, a friend saw me writing the last paragraph of this story I'm making and weeeell....she said I needed to show people my writing. So, here's the last paragraph.

1. Background Noise

He rose from the piano bench in a very unusual haphazard manor, then sat back down. He felt something wet and cold roll down his pale cheek; a single raindrop. He stared blankly through the sliding glass door that led into that house. He watched as their lips moved, yet no sound was heard. That's when Demy realized it; all he was was background noise.