1. The chapter that is written in Chibi (ChibiLena)

Trinity sat with her head on Serena's lap, crying silently.

Her mother sat on her knees with her hands in hers.

"Trinity, Stella ran off. She'll be back. She probably went to stay at Sally's house or somewhere."

Trinity thought maybe she should lie to cover this up.

"Probably, Ookasan."

Her mother stood up and exited the room.

"Trinz, it'll work out. It always does."

Trinity sat up and laid down on her bed, the tears still coming.

Serena sat until she heard Trinity's muffled sobbing, then went to her own room.

"ChibiChibi?" asked ChibiChibi, coming out of her own room.

"Don't worry. Go back to sleep."

ChibiChibi went back in, but when she heard Serena's door shut, she came back out again and went into Trinity's room. She looked around.

"Chibi?" she whispered. There was no reply from her fellow Chibi.

Suddenly, she felt her watch buzz. She looked down and ChibiTri's face appeared on it.

"ChibiTri." it said.

ChibiChibi nodded, then disappeared.

ChibiTri hauled herself into Deathrite's throne after much climbing and giggled. She was really high!

ChibiChibi appeared.

"Chibi?"

ChibiTri held out the piece of glass that her friend flew up and got.

"Chibi?" she asked looking at it. ChibiTri nodded.

"ChibiChibi?" asked ChibiChibi.

"Tri." said ChibiTri.

Suddenly, in a flash of silver light, a girl their age with silver hair appeared.

"ChibiLena." it coughed, silver dust scattering.

"Chibi!" said ChibiChibi, handing ChibiLena the glass.

"ChibiLENA!" It gasped.

ChibiTri jumped down and grabbed two pieces of glass and fitted them together. A silver light stitched them together to make a bigger piece.

"Tri." she said.

The others gaped.

"Chibi..." ChibiChibi pointed to the glass, "...Chibi?" she made a rectangle shape with her hands.

ChibiTri nodded.

ChibiChibi and ChibiLena fainted.

Then got up again.

"Le." sighed ChibiLena, and the girls started collecting the pieces of glass and fitting them together.

2. Chibis escape

Trinity opened her eyes.

What day was it?

Friday. Crap. School.

What time was it?

Six. Hmm. Still an hour before she had to get up....

But still...where was Stella?

Oh yeah. She was dead.

Trinity sat up. She needed something to hug. Where was ChibiTri?

"ChibiTri?" she whispered. Nothing.

She looked around. There was a scrunched piece of paper where ChibiTri slept.

Trinity opened the note and read.

TriTri

Stehlachib chicia Lena chibi Kura chibu bib Me chibi Ri chibh Chibi.

Chibi glass chibibibiibii negachibi Stehl.

ChibiTri

Trinity gaped.

"OMG! CHIBITRI'S RUN OFF WITCH SOME OTHER STARSEEDS TO THE NEGAVERSE TO SAVE STELLA!"

The chibis had a piece of glass about as big as a Nintendo DS, and they were still going.

"Kura?" asked ChibiLena.

"Me? Ri?" asked ChibiChibi.

ChibiTri shrugged.

"ChibiTrihi."

Suddenly, there was a flash of green light and a girl with black hair appeared. She looked...just a bit...like Pai.

"ChibiMe!" it said, waving.

"ChibiTritri chibitr," explained ChibiTri, "Chichi."

ChibiMe raised her eyebrows.

"Me?"

"Tri."

So she started piecing together the glass together.

"SERENA! GETTUP!" screamed trintiy, shaking Serena.

"Wha-?"

"Read this." said Trinity, shoving the note under her sister's nose.

Serena read it.

"Oh no." she said.

The girls ran hand in hand down stairs and out the door.

"Yeh?"

"Does your mother know you're round a boys house?"

...

A look of panic swept across Sally's face, and she ran for the door.

"Oh gosh she's gonna kill me, bye Trinz see ya tomorrow, bye Serena, bye Alex love you!"

Sally rushed, and as she ran out, she kissed Alex on the cheek. And she was gone.

Alex rubbed a hand over his cheek with a look of confusion and happiness.

"I will never wash this cheek again." he said, smiling.

Trinity and Serena exchanged slightly worried glances and left. Alex sat down on his sofa as they shut the door, reached under one of the cushions and took out his diary.

"Dear diary," he said as he wrote, " She finally likes me..."

4. Pai and Adam

Pai sighed and looked out her window, stroking a black kitten-her child, Rein, in her cat form. The only other sound in her apartment was Adam's soft snoring from next to her, also in his cat form. He didn't really have any other choice-he couldn't remember how to turn back into a human ever since they had left the planet Meow.

Suddenly, a rock flew at the window, made a faint banging sound and fell, leaving a little mark on the glass. Pai looked down. Outside was Deathrite, beckoning to her.

Pai opened her window and hissed: "How do you know where I live?!"

"I've tried every other window in this block of flats on all five bottom floors and you didn't come out of any window except this one. And I read your mind in the negaverse to find out. Now are you coming with me or not?"

Pai looked down at the still sleeping Adam and Rein. They'd be ok if she went.

Gathering up her nightgown to her knees, the girl slipped her legs out the window and sat on the window pane.

"Catch me!" she called, pushing away.

Deathrite flew up and caught her as she fell to the fourth storey. From the window in front of them, an old lady looked at them with a jaw-dropped expression.

"You're dreaming, Mrs Adachi." reassured Pai. The woman nodded and pulled the curtains shut.

Deathrite said nothing, just flew forward and upwards until they were flying above the buildings of Tokyo.

"Ok, why did you start throwing rocks at my window in the middle of the night?" asked Pai.

"We need to talk." sighed Deathrite.

"Ok. I take it this won't be nice, so can you like, let me go?"

"Yeh."

Deathrite took one of Pai's hands and moved away from her, so they were only joined by hands while flying.

"Pai, you're really cool and stuff, but there's something I gotta come clean about."

"I know it can't work out between us, Deathrite. I have a kid and a husband. But it doesn't mean we can't still be friends!"

"No, Pai, look. Remember all that crazy stuff that happened in the Negaverse?"

"Oh...that." sighed Pai, blushing slightly.

"Yeh. Well, they thing was...I drugged you."

Pai went rigid.

"You did what?"

"Nothing serious, just some sleeping pills. But everything since I kissed you was a dream, up until you agreed to go to the ball. I never fell in love with you, I never kissed you. I just thought you were really cool and you wouldn't go with me to the ball unless I made up a story.

"Deathrite, you idiot! I like you! You were one of the nicest guys I had met for a long time! I would have gone with you if you had asked me right off!" screamed Pai.

"Oh." he muttered, awkwardly.

"And now you tell me you never liked me more than a friend?! You made me fret over my future for nothing!? I HATE MEN! GAAAAAAAH!"

"Pai, I'm sorry, I never thought-"

"NO, I KNOW you didn't! That's the problem! You're a man and you never ever EVER think!"

Pai had started scratching at Deathrite's faced with her free hand, now. Deathrite grabbed her free wrist with his other hand and tightened his grip on her other one.

"Girl! Will you stop it?!" he hissed, patience coming to an end.

Pai twisted and turned as much as she could.

"Let me go, or I'll beat you up!" she threatened.

"How? I don't see you with your pendant." he said, simply.

Pai started to worry.

"Let me go! Help!" she called.

"Now, will you let me talk or will I have to take you back to the Negaverse?" he asked.

Pai took in a deep breath, then screamed as loud as she could:

"ADAM!"

Adam raised his head, suddenly. Running to the window, he saw, in the distance, two struggling figures in the sky.

"Pai! I'm coming!" he called.

Rein woke up.

"Papa! What's going on?!"

"Your mama is in danger. Rein, how fast can you run as a human?"

"Very fast."

"I need you to do something for me. Can you take me and run over there?" he asked, pointing with a paw to Pai and Deathrite.

Rein looked scared, quickly turning back into a human, but nodded.

"Ok. Go, go!"

Adam got Pai's kitten mirror in his mouth and braced himself as the girl picked him up and ran out the apartment door.

Rein hated it outside. There were lots of strangers and it was too bright and noisy.

Everyone looked at her but made no move towards her. Rein was concerned someone would, and kept looking round.

After Rein had got to the end of another street, she turned and looked round. Then she felt a hand on her shoulder.

She turned and screamed.

"Hey, why are you out so late?" asked Aqua, standing there with Damian's arm around her shoulder, Mika next to them.

"Mama's up there!" said Rein, pointing upwards. About two hundred feet in the air, there was Pai and Deathrite struggling.

Aqua and Damian looked at each other. Damian ran behind a dumpster for a second, then the Midnight Marauder came out. He held his cloak in front of Aqua and Mika, they span round, then sailor Aquarius and sailor chibi Aquarius stepped out.

"Move out the way!" said Aqua, raising her hands and pointing to Deathrite.

"Aquarius cosmic star smash!" she said. A huge ball of ice appeared in her hands and launched itself at Deathrite.

Pai still struggled.

"Do you want me to drop you?!" yelled Deathrite.

Suddenly, a ball of ice flew into his face, stunning him for a second.

Pai took this opportunity and broke away from the evil prince. She fell.

Deathrite looked down and sent out a beam of purple light underneath her, and the ground opened up to show a bed of extremely sharp spikes.

Rein screamed and covered her eyes, dropping Adam.

Adam took immediate action and jumped.

Aqua and Damian looked on, jaw-dropped, as Adam literally flew upwards.

In the air, Pai felt very dizzy. She felt a grip on her night-dress and Adam climbed up onto her chest.

"Adam! Help!" she screamed.

Adam put his short arms round her.

"C'mon c'mon c'mon!" he muttered to himself.

Suddenly, a blue mist surrounded Adam, and he began to grow. In a couple of seconds, he wasn't a cat any more. He was a fully grown man. With glasses.

Adam got a tighter grip around Pai and threw his whole body weight to the side, so they rolled out of the path of the spikes, and, as Adam used his cat reflexes, landed on his feet with Pai still in his arms.

Deathrite spat and disappeared.

Pai stepped away from Adam, slowly, smiling.

"You saved me." she whispered.

"Of course." he said, with a smile.

"Wow, Pai, your boyfriend is hot!" gasped Aqua.

Damian narrowed his eyes at Aqua, but she smiled at him.

"Not as hot as you, of course!" she giggled, girlishly.

Neither Adam or Pai were listening.

"Thank you." she said.

Adam took her head in his hands and reached down, kissing her.

"Eew!" said Rein, stepping back and shutting her eyes.

"Sorry!" he said, pulling back his head.

Pai laughed and they both held their hands out to Rein.

"Ok then, let's go home." she said, smiling.

Rein ran up to them and took hold of their hands, grinning.

The three of them walked away, happily, Rein skipping between the adults.

Aqua looked at Damian.

"Why aren't we like that?"

"...Mika, want a hot dog?!"

"YEH!"

Damian and Mika de-henshined and walked off.

Aqua smiled and de-hensined, then followed them, grabbing Damian's arm. Damian kissed the top of her head.

And then, once again, that street in the busy Tokyo was still and silent.

5. A traitor?

Sally sighed heavily and laid her head on the desk. It was waaaaaaay out of order her mother had grounded her for two weeks, just because she had come in late.

The doorbell went and the sound of it being open was heard.

"Oh, hello Trinity. Sally's upstairs in her room, she can't come and play-she's grounded." she heard her mother say.

"I DON'T PLAY! I'M EIGHTEEN!" screamed Sally.

There was the sound of footsteps and Trinity came into the room.

"Sally? I take it we can't go if you're grounded." sighed Trinity.

"I know. But I bet Pai or Kairi would be willing to take you. Or Aqua-

Trinity's watch/scout communicator beeped, indicating a call was being made. She looked at Sally.

"It's Aqua." Said Trinity, and put it on loudspeaker.

"Yeh?" she asked.

"Trinity!? Oh, Trinz, help!" gasped a panicky-sounding Aqua.

"Aqua, calm down-" began Sally, but she was interrupted.

"It's an emergency! Mika has gone!"

Trinity and Sally looked at each other, then ran out the room.

"Sally!" came the voice from downstairs, "You know you aren't supposed to-"

But they had already left.

Trinity knocked on the door of the outer's house. Then the girls panted to get their breath back, as they had ran there.

Michiru opened the door.

"What's going on?" asked Sally.

"I don't know. Hotaru's trying to get Aqua to tell her, but she's not saying much." sighed Michiru, then stood aside to let the girls in.

Aqua was sitting on her bed, hugging Mika's pillow. Hotaru had her arm round the girl's shoulders and Haruka was standing at the door, worriedly.

"Aqua! What happened?" asked Trinity.

"She just...vanished." whispered Aqua.

"When did you last see her?"

"Yesterday," replied Aqua, "I was putting her to bed. I turned out the lights and left the door open a bit, then went to watch TV. I went to bed about an hour after that. And I heard her talking during the night-about one in the morning, maybe? I went to see what the matter was and she was gone."

Trinity and Sally exchanged glances.

"Who was she talking to?"

Aqua shrugged.

"A woman. Older than us." she explained.

Sally realised something.

"Aqua...where's Setsuna?"

"I dunno. I think she left for sailor stuff. Why?"

Sally looked at Aqua with a very solemn face.

Aqua gaped after a while.

"No."

"It could have been, Aqua."

"But she's one of my closest friends!"

"Who knows what goes on in people's heads?"

"BUT SETSUNA CAN'T HAVE TAKEN MIKA!" screamed Aqua, then buried her face in the pillow and sobbed.

Trinity and Sally looked at each other and sighed, but said nothing, just put their arms round Aqua.

6. Mika in the mirror

Mika screamed and tried to pull the shadows off her face. They didn't move. They clung even more tightly, choking her. She fell to the floor and clawed at them.

Above her, Sailor Pluto stood, smiling.

"Why would you do this?!" yelled Mika,

"Heh heh. That is for me to know and you to find out." she laughed, walking off.

Mika was alone as the shadows swallowed her.

The chibis made steady progress through the mirror. There were three others, now. One with silver hair, a part in a ribbon, one with black hair and green eyes and the last one with a long plait.

ChibiKura-the other silver haired one- was the fastest worker as she was the most impatient. They had made about a quarter of the mirror up by now.

"ChibiMe." sighed ChibiMe, exhausted.

"Chibi." replied ChibiTri, putting a comforting hand on ChibiMe's shoulder.

The girls continued to work in silence. A problem overwhelmed them. None of them spoke, but they all knew: They were getting very hungry.

Stella stood still.

She blinked.

Hello?

Is anybody there?

Stella, you have to open your mouth to speak.

You can't speak! AH!

Ok, ok, calm down. Speaking doesn't matter. Where are you? It's kinda hard to see in all this darkness-

Oh no! Am I blind?!

I can see my hand. So no. I'm not.

Can I move?

Yes.

"Hello?" she called, her voice cleansing.

"Hello?" called a voice back.

Was it an echo? Stella asked herself.

"Who is that?"

"Who is that?!"

"Ok, c'mon. Tell me."

"You first."

Stella realised it wasn't an echo.

"Ok, I'll run to your voice!"

"Um..all right."

The voice did some tuneless scales while Stella ran in the darkness. Eventually, she saw a coloured dot in the everlasting blackness.

She ran to it and saw her blonde-haired little cousin.

"Mika!" she sighed. Mike saw Stella and threw her arms round her, then started to sob.

"It's ok, it's ok, I'm here." soothed Stella.

"Oh, it's been horrible in here! I've had no idea where anything was it was so dark!"

"Shh, Mika. Shhh."

Eventually Mika calmed down but still had hold of Stella's hand.

"Where do we go?" she asked.

"Well...we look around a bit. See if there's any more colour." explained Stella, hoping she sounded sure of herself. She didn't, but Mika didn't seem to hear, she just nodded.

The girls walked arounds for a while, seeing nothing. It seemed hopeless. Until..

"Look, Stella, light!" gasped Mika. Sure enough, there was a tiny speck of white. The girls ran towards it (well, Stella ran and pulled Mika along behind her) until they reached the light.

It was weird. It was a jagged light source that seemed to sprout from the floor. And it was growing. Slowly, but surely, more disfigured patches of light came from the top.

"Let's see if we can get through!" said Mika, and knelt down to the light. She tried to put her hands through, but her palms were stopped as she pushed, but she couldn't get through.

"CHIBI!" gasped ChibiKura, as a figure appeared at the light. All the Starseeds looked at it. It was, quite clearly, Mika.

"Chibi!" called ChibiLena to Mika.

"Stella....there are some weird toddlers talking to me."

"What? Let me see- oh my."

ChibiTri waved as Stella appeared next to Mika.

"ChibiTri! get us out!"

"Chibi..." sighed ChibiTri. (We're trying...)

"ChibiMeMe?" asked ChibiMe. (Why can't they get out?)

"Chibi." replied ChibiChibi. (The hole isn't big enough yet.)

Stella felt hopeless. Mika grabbed her arm.

"What do we do?" she asked.

"We wait." sighed Stella, and sat down in the darkness and waited. Eventually, Mika did the same.

7. Pegasus forms

Eventually when Aqua had calmed down, the girls agreed to look for Mika and Stella at the same time. Aqua suggested to go and get Pai and Kairi, but Trinity interrupted and said No, that it was too dangerous for the children, and even Sally shouldn't really be going because 1 she needed to protect Annie, and 2 she was grounded.

So after much muttering and moaning, Sally agreed it was the best thing for her to go home. So she did.

Trinity and Aqua started by scouting the town and calling for Mika and Stella, but they both knew where they were. It was horrible.

"We can't put this off any longer." sighed Aqua. Trinity nodded.

"We need a way into the Negaverse."

"Let's go find the cats..."

Trinity and Aqua walked forward, only to walk into a man.

"Sorry!" they said at the same time...then grinned.

The man was tanned and had brown hair and glasses, and very green eyes.

"Sorry, ladies, it's my fault." he replied.

"No...no...it's ok...no, it was our fault..." they muttered.

"Wait...I recognise that voice!" gasped Trinity.

"Adam?"

"Oh, hey girls. Sorry, I didn't recognize you from up here."

"Why? Who What? Huh?"

"Ask Pai later."

"Adam!" trilled a voice. Pai ran up to Adam with Rein behind her.

"Oh, hey guys! I see you've met Adam!"

"Yeh..." they muttered.

"Isn't he nice?"

"Yeh..."

"What?"

"So uh, Pai..." muttered Aqua looking at Trinity.

"Yes?"

"You like cats now, do you?"

Trinity and Aqua burst out laughing while Pai scowled.

"Children." she said sternly. Aqua and Trinity kept laughing.

"Grrr..."

Pai hit them over the heads with her shopping bags. They stopped laughing.

"Ok, sorry Pai. We've got to go." explained Aqua, then the girls ran off.

The girls got to a street that was empty and ran into an alley.

"Ready?"

"Yes."

"Sun Cosmic power..."

"Aquarius Cosmic power..."

"...MAKE-UP!"

No longer were there pretty teenage girls, in their places were strong soldier senshi.

"Right...now we find..." started Aqua, but Trinity slapped a hand over her mouth and pulled her into the shadows.

crying.

"Stella...I think we can get out if we use our pegasus forms." whispered.

"But we don't have pegasus forms." replied Aqua, and Mika started to sob.

"Aqua." whispered Trinity.

"...Just believe you do."

"SUN CRYSTAL DREAM ACTION!" screamed Stella and Trinity and they both transformed.

Grabbing Rini, they jumped out the mirror.

"Mama...what do we do?" sobbed Mika.

Aqua shut her eyes and breathed.

"C'mon...c'mon..." she muttered.

Suddenly, a white light appeared around her and her daughter.

A new pendant appeared in their hands.

"Aquarius Lovely Dream Power, Make-up!" said Aqua, and her and Mika began to change.

They were suddenly in their pegasus forms, they jumped out the mirror.

The five sailors (Rini had now transformed too, as she was just waking up from being KO'd) stood in battle poses.

"Impossible." hissed Sailor Supernova.

"No. Just love." said a voice. Sailor Pluto walked out from the mirror, too.

"Did you really think that stupid mirror could hold me?" she asked.

Sailor Supernova growled.

"SUN CRYSTAL GEART MEDITATION!"

"AQUARIUS CELESTIAL STAR BARRAGE!"

The power from the two pairs of sailors hit Sailor Supernova. She screamed and turned, then suddenly, she disappeared. They fell to the floor.

"Is she dead?" Rini asked Setsuna.

"No. We shall see her again."

Suddenly, a bright light appeared from the floor. Helios, Selene and Helia appeared in it.

"Thank you." said Helia.

"You brought us back." continued Helios.

"We are going." sighed Selene.

"Why?" asked Stella.

"We just need some time. We shall see you again."

"We'll miss you." whispered Mika, to Helia, the pegasus she had known in Crystal Tokyo.

"I know. But it will not be forever. Goodbye!" said Helia, and the Pegasuses disappeared.

Mika began to cry again. Aqua held her.

"I think we should go now." said Trinity.

8. Chibi's dream

Trinity smiled as she sat on the couch with Stella. Her parents had told Stella, Mika and Rini to never go to Cerion's, Darrien's and Damian's apartment without permission again.

"Are they still asleep?" asked Trinity as Aqua came downstairs.

"Yeah." Aqua replied, sitting next to her cousin.

Upstairs, in Trinity's double bed, all the Chibis were asleep. They deserved a good rest after all they had been through.

ChibiLena slept on the far left, ChibiKura on the far right, then next to ChibiLena was ChibiRi and next to her ChibiMe. On the left of ChibiKura was ChibiChibi who was chewing the blanket. Then last, but not least, was ChibiTri, hugging her Ixi plushie and dreaming.

They were all having the same dream. They were in the sky, riding on horses with horn and wings.

It was a good dream.
