just a poem that i wrote to describe the feeling you would get if you summon an aeon

1. summon

Summon

Summon up the power in side you and show the world that you thought would turn it's back on you and never did.

Summon up the monsters in side that could be your future that can consume you and twist you.

But to summon theses things you must look deep in the darkest part of your soul and find what you truly desire.

Summon the power and rise up to your goal summon those spirits inside and find out who's in control.
