Chapter 2 - Striking Thunder	3

1 - Wake up!

MARIO'S POV

I awoke in a strange place. My head pounded for a few seconds. I looked around. The walls were a bright lavenderish, while the floor was an brownish orange. I was on a white, comfy sheet. Where am I? I thought. A Lavender-eyed girl, wearing a lavender dress, with lavender catlike ears poking through her blond hair and a tail to match, called out "He's awake!" to another girl with cute pink eyes and a pink dress, and the ears of a pink canine poking through her beautiful blond hair, a white and pink ribbon on the right one, her pink canine tail poking through her dress. The pink-eyed girl ran towards me. "Mario, I'm so glad that you're ok!" she said happily. Am I Mario? I thought, as she hugged me so tight that it hurt a little bit. Her tail was thrashing around, and the smile she had was up to her cheeks. Who is she? I pondered. "Now, Now, Peach, let's not get too excited. He just woke up. Give him some time to think" reprimanded the Lavender-eyed girl. The Pink-eyed girl, who I assumed was Peach, answered "Ok, Nastasia. Sorry for bothering you, Mario." She then walked towards the Lavender-eyed girl, who I assumed was Nastasia. Peach was pretty. Real pretty. The 2 girls walked out of the room, while I watched them leave. I then looked at myself. I was wearing a comfy red shirt, with an orangish stripe in the middle, and soft blue sweatpants. I saw something that was a dark gray, and gave chase.

Ten minutes later

That was my tail.

2 - Striking Thunder

MARIO'S POV

After chasing (and catching!) my tail, I am alerted by a door creaking open. A....boy? man? walked into the room I am in. He seemed to be a little taller than Nastasia. He had silly ears on his head, and his tail was like a line that ended in a thunderbolt. Some brown hair was over his lip, it being two sections, one ending and the other beginning in the middle, right under his nose. He picked up a chair and sat in it. "Before you get any wrong ideas, I'm only here because Nastasia sent me here" he said, then put his light grey hand under his nose, stroking the hair. "But, I could kill you here....."

He looked at me with those silver eyes, then looked around the room, said something under his breath, then resumed talking. "They just had to put security cameras here!" He shouted, then sighed. "Nastasia sent me here to ask if you're alright. Apparently neither she or Peach or literally anyone else could do it instead!"

I pointed to myself. "What are you doing now?" He asked.

I pointed to his eyes, and then to myself.

"Do you want a mirror?" He asked.

That seems to be what I want. I thought, and nodded.

"Hmph. Nastasia sends me here, and now Jumpsalot wants a freaking mirror!" The bandit? grumbled.

Jumpsalot? Who's that? Aren't I Mario? I pondered.

"You know what? Go get that mirror yourself. Either that, or go look at the bathroom mirror" ordered the bandit-looking guy.

I stood up, on wobbly legs, and stumbled toward the door he had went through. There, I found more doors.

Some of them had stuff on them. There was a door that had what looked like bubbles on it. I went towards that door and opened it, then stepped inside. The walls and floor were white, with lines in between it, making them look like squares. I caught a glimpse of someone, and turned to look at them. Something white was wrapped around their head, with two tall grey wolflike ears poking out. They had pretty blue eyes, which looked at me back. I covered my face with a white hand, and they did the same. They were wearing the same clothes that I am. I lowered my hand, and they did the same. They had hair in between their mouth and nose, but it wasn't the same style as the bandit-looking guy. I touched one of my wolflike ears, and they did the same. I then heard someone(probably Peach) say "Breakfast!"
