1 - Super Smash Bros. DS

So far, there hasn't been any info about a DS version. If Nintendo's going to make a SSB for the DS they better do it soon! Sure the DS is doing well but it'll probably decrease (barley) in sales sometime within 2008-2009 and maybe news for the next portable so Nintendo should make a SSB for it to make the popularity stay up for a few more years. If they want it to have DS to Wii connectivity with Brawl, they better do it REALLY soon!

Chance this game will be made- %55.... sorry.

Some ideas....

They should have like 8 players instead of 4.

Characters could unleash powers by pressing an item button on the touch screen.

Wifi would be excellent!

Maybe some powers could be used by the microphone (blowing into it to cause a powerful wind for example).

Maybe draw a line on the touch screen to make a path for a specific place for an attack.

The controlling will probably won't be as neat as console controlling.

The graphics... well you know.

Sadly these are the only unique ideas I have so far. Expect more soon!
