

Love is Love's Reward

By Rosemarie_luvs_Danny

Submitted: April 24, 2006

Updated: April 24, 2006

This is a fic about a few of my buddies from DA. In this fic you will see how uhm how should i put it,,,,,,,,, intense a simple game of Truth or Dare can be with these different personalities. As you all should know Rose and DP me are well Mine!!

Provided by Fanart Central.

http://www.fanart-central.net/stories/user/Rosemarie\_luvs\_Danny/32299/Love-is-Loves-Reward

Chapter 1 - Rain Rain Go Away	2
Chapter 2 - Pay and BACK	4

1 - Rain Rain Go Away

Love is Love's Reward

By: Amber

It was a warm cloudy day. Just the way I like it. The smell of rain in the air as I lay on the soft green grass in the public park of Amity Park. Everyone was heading home not to be drenched in the rain that was soon to come. I loved the rain. The smell of it as it fell upon the ground and my face. The wet feeling it left upon my skin and my clothes. I starred at the sky above me. The clouds becoming darker shades of grey every minute.

About 5 minutes later, a loud clap of thunder softly shook the ground. It startled me, causing me to jump off the ground. "Why a storm? Why couldn't it just be a rain shower?" I said to myself with a sigh. I brushed the grass off of my jeans and back of my grey t-shirt. Then I started to head to my home. I was about 1/3 of the way there when it started to down pour upon my head. "Oh perfect." I was drenched in a matter of seconds. I started to continue my walk home in my glum way when the rain seemed to stop falling upon my brunette/reddish hair.

I looked up above my head to see a black umbrella with lil skulls upon the sides. Right then and there I knew who it belonged to. "Hey Amber. What's up?" said DD. I gave him a warm smile. "Oh, nothing really. Oh and thanks for helping with the umbrella. Appreciate it a lot," I said. "Yeah sure, no problem." We started to walk to my place. As we walked up the steps, I heard giggles coming from behind the door.

I turned the knob to find Autumn, David, Rose, Robbie, and Danton in my living room. "Uhm, what is with all you in my living room?," I asked. "Remember you called us yesterday and asked us to come over," replied Autumn. I slapped my forehead feeling stupidity running through my brain. "Check it out. I must be getting really old because my mind is already slipping," I said to them all. David hugged onto Autumn as he let her lean onto his lap. Danton was blabbing with Robbie as Rose hugged onto his arm.

DD and I just rolled our eyes and walked into the room. DD placed his umbrella against the wall by the front door, shutting the door behind us. We both went and sat down by the group. Robbie asked. "So what shall we do? A group of teenage buddies in the living room, no adults in the house, it's raining out, somebody better think of something." Then an idea struck his mind along with everyone else, well except for DD and mine. "Truth or Dare!" they all exclaimed at the same time.

DD's eyes seemed to nearly fall out of his head as they widened to their fullest point. My jaw just dropped down low. "You have got to be kidding," we both exclaimed together. "Oh come on you two stop being so chicken,” Rose joked. “Watch it missy or I'll suck your sorry brat like butt into the thermos,” I snarled. “Attitude, I like it,” said DD. I noticed that he slightly blushed when he said it. Autumn pulled out her camera and snapped a pic of DD. “Hey! What did you do that for?” DD snarled. “Black mail smells so sweet,” she said as she whipped the picture underneath her nose wofting in the smell of the freshly printed polarode picture.

“Nice one there sweetie,” David said as he lightly pecked Autumn upon the cheek. “Autumn's got game. Who knew?” Rose said in her sarcastic ways. “That's it you are going in the thermos.” I pulled out the thermos from my back pack that hung upon the wall on a hook and opened the cap. “Say hello to my lil friend.” Then I sucked her right up into it. “Hey now!!! That was uncalled for!” Robbie exclaimed as he snatched the thermos from my hand and let Rose out. “Thank you, hun. I don't want to stay here anymore. This is boring me,” she said as she snuggled up to Robbie. “Chicken! Suck up! Wimp!” we all called to her. Robbie gave us his glare and walked to the door of the house with Rose at his side.

“Come on Rose. I'll walk you home,” he said as he held her hand and walked out with her. “Ok lets play before I too leave,” said Danton. A gulp escaped down my throat. “Are you alright, Amber?,” DD asked. “Yeah I'm fine.” I was such a bad liar but he bought it. Autumn asked first. Just guess who she asked. “DD, truth or dare?” He seemed to be silent for a few moments. He looked at me as I had a soft yet dorky smile upon my face. He smiled back then let the word out, “Dare.” Autumn had an evil grin upon her face.

Ha ha I'm cutting you off. to be continued....

2 - Pay and BACK

DD just gulped. He then realized what he had gotten himself into. Autumn whispered something to David and they both began to snicker. DD glanced at me with a worried look upon his face. I gave him a soft smile telling him not to worry it won't be so bad. Then again what was I thinking? It was "Autumn" that was giving him the dare. Who knows where her mind would end up.

"Alright, DD. I dare you to.....stand out in the rain," "That's all? Pfft no problem." "I wasn't finished." "Come again?" he questioned her with his eyebrow above his scar raised. "I dare you to go stand out in the rain in nothing but your underwear until 3 cars drive by," Autumn finally finished. DD's jaw just dropped down low. David and Danton both started cracking up like you wouldn't believe. I swear Danton had tears trickling down his cheeks. "Oh my god I think I burst a gut!," David remarked as he rolled around on the floor.

"You have got to be kidding me?," DD said with a nervous look upon his face. "You have to do it, dude. It's the rule," Danton remarked as he whipped tears from his eyes. Autumn still had her little evil grin upon her lips. DD let out another gulp sounded like a bowling ball slamming into the sidewalk from about 50 stories up high. I patted him on the back and tried to comfort him. "Alright I'll do it." DD stood up and went to the rest room. When he came out he was in just his boxers. Of course I couldn't help but let a little bit of red come to my cheeks. Once again, the other three started cracking up.

We all walked to the front door and Autumn opened it up to let DD step out. He stuttered for a few seconds then sucked it up and stepped down the steps to the sidewalk. Not long after that a car came speeding down the street. What happened next was unexpected. When the car sped past DD, it soaked him with water from the street. "Oh dear!," I exclaimed as I bit my finger in shock. Poor DD, he looked like a wet rat, not being rude by the way I put it into words but that is what Autumn referred to him as.

Danton and David laughed as they leaned against the railing of the steps to the house. DD turned to face us all with a sad but yet angry look upon his face. Autumn rushed back in and grabbed her camera and snapped a picture of DD. "Got to love that black mail." She shoved the picture into her pocket but not ripping it. We waited for nearly 20 more minutes for another car to come by but no luck. I sat out under DD's umbrella close by him at the bottom step. Autumn, David, and Danton stayed at the top of the steps. Then that was when I heard it. The door shut after I heard several snickers. DD turned toward the door and glared. I stood up and walked over to DD. The poor boy was shivering like crazy. I had to keep him warm or he would get sick.

I had brought out my black hoodie with me. I wore it over my t-shirt. I took it off and placed it on the shivering DD. He seemed surprised at first then gave me a soft smile. "Th....Than...Thanks," he said still trying to warm up. I wrapped my arms around him trying to help him warm up. He sighed a sweet sigh as he nuzzled his head against me. "No problem, DD." I walked back up the steps with him. I reached under the door matt and pulled out the spare key.

Once I opened the door, DD and I glared at the three teens laughing on the floor. "I could kick all of you out of her into the rain if I wanted to for shutting me out of my own house but I'm not that mean. However, I am going to help DD get you back for nearly freezing him to death," I snarled still hugging onto DD trying to get his body temp to go back up.

Autumn just smiled a cheesy grin at me. "Oh is that right? Well come on then DD, lets have it." Sure she was the one that was a smarty pants at the comment but Danton and David had a little look of nervousness and scared upon the faces. "Time for a little thing I like to call Pay and Back!"

Boo-yah I'm cutting you off yet again. mwuahahaha