After playing some of Sonic Unleashed, I had no choice but to mock it a little. I'm not saying I hate the game - hell, this is probabally the best Sonic game out here in the "next gen", as Sega calls it. I recommened this game.

Chapter 1 - What I've Learned	2
Chapter 2 - Ways to Die in Holaska	4

1 - What I've Learned

1. Dogs cannot die from chocolate, nor any animal, including a rainbow pheonix of pretty-light-sparkle.
2. Werewolves have stretchy arms, are perfectly friendly, and sound like Jet The Hawk with a bad cold.
3. Everyone is Dan Green.
4. YOU ARE DAN GREEN.
5. It is possible to run on water.
6. Anyone who is grumpy, or acts strange at night are possessed by dark spirits and so therefore, must be attacked with a camera.
7. Hedgehogs can run upside-down.
8. All you need are gloves and shoes to survive freezing cold climates.
9. When transformed into a werehog, everyone will reconize you except the person who has been stalking you for the last billion games.
10. it is possible to run 600 mph and not get whiplash and die.
11. Hedgehogs are half the size of humans, and much taller than humans when tranformed into werehogs.
12. balloons are powerful enough to, not only support someone's weight, but shoot them upwards.
13. Europe is actually named Spagonia.
14. Antartica is actually named Holaska.
15. Greece is actually named Mykonos.
15. China is actually named Chun-Nun.
16. Africa is actually named Mazuri.
17. San Fransico is actually named Empire City.
18. Egypt is actually named Shamar.
19. Although people in Afr - I mean Mazuri don't know what most American things mean, they know what magazines are.

20. Artists chuck their books everywhere, hoping hedge/werehogs will someday find them. As in, for no reason at all.

21. Every store anywhere sells chilidogs.

22. Every town/city has a hotdog stand, and the seller of the hotdog stand will always refuse to sell them to you EVEN THOUGH YOU ARE SONIC THE HEDGE/WEREHOG AND YOU DESERVE HOTDOGS, DAMNIT, unless you preform arduous tasks that require you to kill yourself.

23. Defying the laws of physics is now possible! You can quickstep left and right without stopping, and not fall down/break every bone in your body!
that's all I've got so far. If you have any ideas, contact me!

2 - Ways to Die in Holaska

I've been playing Sonic Unleashed a lot lately (but what do you expect from a new release?) It is tremendously fun, except this one extremely annoying level in Holaska that took so much trial and error, I thought I was going to go crazy. Here are the ways you can die in this level, recorded by me from real experiences with these problems.

1. Drowning
2. Getting impaled and drowning
3. hitting a falling ice berg and drowning
4. not clicking the right buttons on time, falling, crashing into a wall, and drowning
5. jumping, and drowning
6. slowing down and drowning
7. drowning while trying not to get impaled and drowning
8. drowning while trying to avoid a falling iceberg, crashing into a wall, and drowning
9. you gain so much fear and lack of confidence of this level that you ultimately wind up drowning
10. getting frozen (it really can happen) and drowning
11. getting frozen, trying to go faster to avoid drowning, flipping upside down, still trying to go faster, going backwards, hitting the opposite wall and drowning
12. getting distracted by a jabbering younger sister and drowning (this may also end up with the younger sister mysteriously drowning as well)
13. getting freaked out (while on solid land) because you think that the next step you take will end up with you doing the above twelve ways of dying, having the analog stick slip out of your fingers so Sonic goes backwards, and drowning
14. trying to jump in the water and dash through the spiked purple frozen things, but hitting the last one, trying to dash out of death, hitting the opposite wall and drowning
15. breaking the game in frustration and rage, then drowning yourself in an act of suicide in the bathroom sink
