

Ghostly Devotions-Prolouge

By The_Twilight_Pen

Submitted: November 3, 2006

Updated: November 3, 2006

It's a comic/story thing I've been working on for I think a half year now. The prologue may not have a place in the comic though. All characters (c) me

Provided by Fanart Central.

http://www.fanart-central.net/stories/user/The_Twilight_Pen/40582/Ghostly-Devotions-Prolouge

Chapter 0 - Opening Stage

2

0 - Opening Stage

Ghostly Devotions

Poor pitiful people of Yushint, they seem so bored don't they Aori? questions a girl over looking a stage.

Hmmm replies the girl on relaxed in a recliner reading How to deal with a dragon.

Picture this a girl of say 19 of Oaklen High running through the Utarn Wood area being chased by a dark figure, too cliché?

Have her fall and then it'd be cliché. Okay so no falling, in the Utarn isn't there a cliff to the Etern Sea? It's more like a big lake but whatever works is fine.

Hmmm. Aori sighs as she turns the page of her massive book, Wood doesn't work against fire breathing dragons, che like that isn't obvious.

What should our dark figure do?

Dark figure of a thousand dooms?

Yes, a thousand dooms.

Bludgeoning her to death is cliché but a fun idea nonetheless.

Why not push her down? The figure should keep her body as a sacrifice. For what? A stupid cult idea?

Of course Colitue, everyone in Yushint is crazy, the bad crazy.

There's a bad crazy? Colitue smirks, There's no such thing. Aori smirks in return.

We're keeping the two trees right? The puppet and dreamer? Course but everyone's dying anyway so I see no importance.

The importance is being able to play with them. She turns another page, skims it, and sighs, This book bores me. It's all boring up here in the rooms.

Back to the Oaklen High girl, call her Kiani.

Kiani? Yup, sounds like a flower and flowers don't last long. Aori closes her eyes, Yushint.

>>

It's a short prologue to a story/comic I'll be starting, a lot of the people are based off of real people I know in my more recent years.