I tried writing a song, it's my best try yet. c:

It's supposed to be about how Ryou Bakura (from Yu-Gi-Oh!) feels after his yami is killed, but you can read it without any familiarity with the Yu-Gi-Oh! series (I think).

0 - Just Like Before

I know how I wished for you to go away
But now I wish you'd been here to stay
With the promise of friendship I was led astray
But the friends was a lie, so to say
In the end, you were the only one honest throughout the day
But still I was happy as I saw you decay

It's not like before
The shadows are gone
It's not like before
I can taste the sunlight
It's just like before
I still need you to survive
It's not like before
You're not here anymore
And I'm dying slowly

You used my body ruthlessly and without my consent
I lived in fear you'd hurt people wherever I went
But soon enough you became a part of me, although without intent
Stupid little me didn't understand what this meant
But I did as soon as you disappeared and now I repent
Please excuse my egoistic lament

It's not like before
The shadows are gone
It's not like before
I can taste the sunlight
It's just like before
I still need you to survive
It's not like before
You're not here anymore
And I'm dying slowly

I know the pain you put me through
I can feel it whenever I go to sleep
I know how I loathed you
But now when you're gone, I always find myself silently weep
I wish you could hear me screaming your name
But you don't really have a name
But I need you all the same

It's not like before
The shadows are gone
It's not like before
I can taste the sunlight
It's just like before
I still need you to survive
It's not like before
You're not here anymore
And I'm dying slowly

It's just like before
It's not like before
You're not here anymore
And I'm dying slowly...
