1 - the beging

I here your

dING ! DING ! DING ! As Luna s alarm clock went off she lifted her arm struggling to find the pest that was making that iritating sound she was getting mader an mader until she leened up out of bed .she picked up the digital clock an threw it up against the wall she basicly polverised it. she said oh no what time is it and opend her doore an ran down stairs to her lonly apartment she looked at the clock and said few that was close she walked to the shower as she got there she blanked out an herd a voice in her head that said come to me child ! she shook it off an hopped in the shower thinking it was nothing when she was done she raped the towel around her soft wet brown hair and another one around her soft wet pale tan skin an looked at the clock to see she still had over a hour untill school started thats plenty of time she said an walked upstairs to her room an put on her blue an white skirt an shirt uniform !

then she put on her school shoes an grabed her bag from her desk an laid it on her bed and went to her vanity an brushed her short hair then put a little cover up an lip stick an just barley any eye shadow on her face an stood up an walked over to the bed to pick up her bag . she walked out off the room an down stairs to the kitchen to get a donut an milk an she gobled it down an wiped her mouth .she went to the bathroom to brush her teeth an to wash her face of the dried glaze on her face when she was done she dried of her face .she waled out of the bathroom . she walked to the doore an opend it .she walked down the steps to the drive way an started to walk towards school then her x best freind pulled up beside her an yelled like the fool she was looser . luna looked down an at her feet pretending she was invisible maby her wish might come true she thought to herself then the voice that she herd that morning came back except this time it said it is your destiny to come to me child as she tried shaking it away it just got louder an louder till she could not stand it any longer she felt like her head might explode .

she started to run until she was at the edge of the forest at the end of her street she heard roomers that the forest was evil some people tride to buldoze it down but when you went in you never came back . once when she was little she saw a boy one year older than her go into the forest but they they never found him they even had a search party but they never came back eather but for some reason she wanted to go in the voice stoped as she took one step in the forest . she walked half way threw the forest when she noticed a strange light so she followed it until she came to a little vilage it was weird it was like she went back in time but it was a difrent feeling like it was another realm . she triped on a rock she was so amazed when she went to walk foward then she started to here the voice again except it wasnt in her head it was behind when she turned arornd she seen this six year old little girl then the little girl said im nana im the oldest one in this whole intire world i was calling did you hear me call then luna said yes an started to cry becace it looked like her little sister that past away her little step sister was all she had left her mother an fother had been assinaited by the goverment so thats what she over heard from the police an so sshe took care of her little sister untill she got hit by a drunk driiver . thinking to her self this is the most painful thing to look at so she got rid of all her sisters stuff its been about a year the little girl since we last saw eachother as she fell to her knees ! i cant beleive it luna said to herself with a weird look upon her face like she seen a ghost the nana said you can no longer go back once you entered the realm of amanosa it means estella luna that is the name of the true ruler of this realm.

she was the one who died protecting our kind the cigama its means moon magic she died by making this place with the last of her breath an power but she left two decendets behind you an your mother .she died long ago i was just a there to see that you were taken care of an not alone but that changed when i had to come back to help because we had a ergent problem that couldnt wait an so death was a sacrifice but we knew that it would hurt but it would go away but i see that it hasnt has it you heart will heal now that your here then luna stood up an said you expect me to beilive all of this you couldnt possibly be my little sister then she started to run into the woods until she was one foot away from the outside when she took one more step she was back again to her own realm so she started to walk home when a car was coming her way not noticing she kept walking then the car wet straight threw her. she noticed that her hands were invisible she started to cry an she fell to her knees just saying this is all to painfull i cant do it i wish i could just break free an fly away i dont want to be here i want to fly away then all of a suden she felt a pain in her back it was so pain full she yelled in pain tears still runing down her face dripping wets with her ttears of pain . she felt her back it was dripping with blood then wings started to form out of her back the pain was gone but the tears wouldnt sop they kept coming an coming still clutching her knees with pain but it wasnt a physical pain it was emotinal it was all hapining all so fast she wanted time to stop an then a voice said awaken your true power her eyes started glowing an then symbols apeared on her body they were the collar of blood she stood up ansaid no i will not give in i will stand strong till the end of time . she said i will be the one to save myself an the cigama then her body an the symbols started to glow brighter than the sun itself her clothes were replaced with a the cigama out fit moons an stars take me far in battle she said as soft as a angel
