2 - the finding

as ryu was walking to school she found a white note book with "Life Note" written on it. she picked it up and looked through it. "just regular paper" she said to herself. she stuffed it in her blue messenger bag with clouds on it. "whatcha doin ryu?" ryu's friend cho asked. "writing in this note book i found." she answered. "keewl let me see!" cho said demandingly. "nope im good." ryu replied walking away. thats how the whole day went for her. she waited for school to end to get home to get on her computer. "ryu can you write something for me?" cho asked. "shure." ryu replied dully. "what do you want?" she added. "well i want you to write a story on shikamaru." cho said slightly scared. "you little ho" ryu said. "what?" cho asked. "first you like gaara then kiba then gaara now my shikamaru? what the hell man, what the hell." ryu explained. "its not for me, and i still like my gaara" cho reasoned. "alright i'll get it done. how long, what characters, what names, who is it based off of, and what type?" ryu asked with a sigh. "well our names need to be in there and whatever you can think of." cho said plainly. the bell rang. "freak yea its time to go home!" ryu yelled. she wrote down shikamaru nara's name and hurried home. she already knew that every time she came home no one would be there. she was alone every time she came home. but that didnt matter. "kia! im home!" she yelled. a little siberian husky came running to her. she petted her puppy and walked to her back yard to play with her dog only to hear snoring?! she looked all around to find the source but only to fail. the she climed to her roof to find shikamaru nara himself! she nearly fainted and fell off her roof but he caught(sp?) her. "your so trouble some...are you okay?" he asked. "not really." she said blushing a crimson red and very dissy. he picked her up and tossed her of the roof. she landed on the cooshins(sp?) on the patio. "this is going to be fun...and its a friday!" she wispered to herself.
