Hiei's POV

Ever since I can remember, I've been on my own. I thought no one wanted me; that I didn't have a place where I belonged. But I finally found a place; I was just the only one in it. But I always felt so alone; I only wished that there were someone that wanted me.

Flashback to when Hiei was four

"Mommie! Mommie! Where w'are you Mommie?" I yelled running threw the Manki forest. Where could she be? I know she is somewhere. I just need to find her. "MOMMIE! I MISS YOU! COME BACK, I WOVE YOU!"

End flashback

Yes I remember that day. I sat in a tree and cried for hours, and I started thinking of how a mother dries her child's tears and mine not being there only made cry harder. And for three years after that I looked for her. Keeping in my mind and in my heart that she wanted me. That she was looking for me also. But I soon gave up my search and decided that the only person I need was me. I would depend on no one!

"I'm taking my Mom out to eat and giving her this necklace that I bought her." I heard the fox saying. That was when I remember that some stupid holiday for mothers was coming up and ningien Children and teenagers were going crazy about it.

"I just bought my Mom a 24 pack of beer and a All-You-Can-Eat pass at the Bar and Grill." I heard the Spirit Detective say as his ningien friend hit him over the head telling him what he should have bought.

"So shorty," I heard the Baka ask me, "what are you doing for your mother for Mother's Day?" I wanted to tear him limb from limb but couldn't. Then I felt something that I didn't know I could feel any more; I felt pain. But not physical pain, I felt pain in my heart. I thought I had blocked that feeling out a long time ago.

Kurama looked at me with pitied eyes and Yusuke hit Kuwabara over the head. I knew that they knew about me but I really didn't care. "Hn. I don't need a family. And all mothers are good for are worrying." Was my reply and I jumped off.

Truth was that I really wanted a family. If nothing else a mother just to pick me up when I fell down and tell me I'd be all right. I wanted to be like Kurama and the others, having to tell my mother that was an adult and I could take care of myself. But no, my mother didn't want anything to do with me. And if she didn't want anything to do with me then I didn't want anything to do with her.

((.....)) This means that it's song lyrics. And warning Hiei is OOC in this chapter. I'm sorry but to make it fit I had to. I'll try to not to that too much. *

Kurama's POV

Where is he? I know that he came this way. I'm walking threw a forest in Manki looking for the little fire demon, I have no clue but I'm so worried about him. I really don't want to be; it's just that it comes so naturally. I just want to protect him.

((Let me be your hero
Would you dance
If I asked you to dance?
Would you run
And never look back?
Would you cry
If you saw me crying?
And would you save my soul, tonight?))

"Hiei! Hiei! Where are you, ya little hellion! Don't you know that you're creating a lot of trouble for us." I yelled while running threw the forest. Truth was that he wasn't causing trouble to anyone; I was just worried sick. Just then I heard something real faint. I wasn't quite sure of who or what it was so I decided to find out. I was so worried that Hiei was hurt or worse, didn't want to be around me any longer. Then I started to think that I would never get to see him again. And images of Hiei and I kissing were popping into my head. But I quickly shook those thought out of my head but really didn't. I thought about what it really would be like.

((Would you tremble
If I touched your lips?
Would you laugh?
Oh please tell me this.
Now would you die
For the one you loved?
Hold me in your arms, tonight.
I can be your hero, baby.
I can kiss away the pain.
I will stand by you forever.
You can take my breath away.))

Just then the realization was setting in that we might have hurt Hiei by talking about our mother's in front of him. "Oh, Hiei..." I said to myself as I ran toward the sound. When I reached a clearing the sound was like I right on top of it. Someone was crying. I look around and all I see are trees, but then I noticed that beside one there are black tear gems. 'THESE ARE LIKE YUKINA'S!' I screamed in my head. "Hiei! Hiei, where are you! Please answer me!" I yelled. My voice ringing threw the forests normal calmness. I was now very worried because Hiei NEVER cried. Never! And now I find his tear gems. And a lot of them! Just then something hit me on top of my head. I look at what fell and it was, yet again, another tear gem. I look up to see Hiei. He was curled up into a ball with tears streaming down his face. 'Hiei...'

((Would you swear
That you'll always be mine?
Or would you lie?
would you run and hide?
Am I in too deep?
Have I lost my mind?
I don't care...
You're here tonight.
I can be your hero, baby.
I can kiss away the pain.
I will stand by you forever.
You can take my breath away.))

I jumped into the tree and sat down beside, putting on my famous smile. "W- what the h-hell do yo-you wan-nt!" I heard Hiei say threw well-concealed sobs. I could see that he was in pain. And I wanted to help but I need to find out the problem.

"Hiei, you know as well as I do that you can't hide anything from me, what's wrong. I know you've been crying."

"I ha-have not!" He argued in defense.

"Hiei," I said shaking my head, "just look at the ground. You forget that you and your sister have one major thing in common." I said taking his hand in mine and giving him a tear gem. And I could hear a very muffled 'damn'.

"Y-you want to kn-know that mu-much, you stu-p-id fox?" I hear him ask me and I just nod my head. "Ok, imagine, if you can, at four ye-years old. You are playing and you f-fall down and scrap yo-our knee. And there is no on- one there to pi-pick you u-up an-an-an-" I just heard him sob. I never knew that he had spent his 'WHOLE' life alone. I wanted to give him a hug but tried to refrain, but when I saw another tear gem fall to the ground I could take it. I pulled him close to my chest and he gripped my school uniform jacket like a young child that was upset about something. "I shou- shou-shouldn't be crying!" I head him, almost angrily, sob into my chest.

((Oh, I just want to hold you.
I just want to hold you. Oh yeah,
Am I in too deep?
Have I lost my mind?
Well I don't care...
You're here tonight.))

"Hiei, it's ok. Everyone cries sometime. Demon or human. Adult or child. Boy or girl. Just let it out." I said as I sat there rocking him slightly. I felt horrible. I contributed to this.

"Ye-yes but not me. I'm no-not sup-suppose to!" I hear him sob a little less angrily.

"Hiei it's okay. I cry sometimes. Yusuke does, even Kuwab..."

"He doesn't count."

"Right, he doesn't count. Well everyone does. It's nothing to be ashamed of." I reassure him, and he started to calm down quite a bit. "But do you wanna talk about it?" I ask him concerned. He then lifted his head to look at me.

"Not really, not now." He said as the last tear fell down his cheek. I brought my hand to his face and whipped it away. Hiei then done something surprised me more than seeing him cry. He smiled a very warm smile.

"I know I don't say this as often as I should but, Than-thank you, Kurama." My response to that was to press my lips genially yet firmly against his. Hiei then pushed me back. "Kurama, what..... what are you....." I hear him say. I didn't know what to say. I just felt that I should do it.

"I-I-I'm really not quite sure. I thought that you wanted... I mean I thought you wouldn't..." I really wasn't quite sure what I was trying to say.

((I can be your hero, baby.
I can kiss away the pain.
I will stand by you forever.
You can take my breath away.
I can be your hero.))

I really didn't know what to say to him. I thought that he felt the same way as me. I wanted him to. And I could now feel tears starting to swell in my eyes so I had to look away. "Kurama, look at me!" I hear him say. I turn to look at him and he kisses me. I put my arms around him and pull him close and deepen the kiss. It was the most wonderful thing I had ever experienced.

((I can kiss away the pain.
And I will stand by you forever.
You can take my breath away.
You can take my breath away.
I can be your hero.))

“I love you Kurama”

“I love you too, Hiei.”
