Chapter 1 - Cherry Freezys	2
Chapter 2 - Ahh the cafe	3
Chapter 3 - The theater is fun!	4

1 - Cherry Freezys

I run hard so I don't get caught. My cherry freezy was making my hands feel numb. I hear they're voices fading. I glance back to see if they are still behind me. No sign of them, good. I let out a sigh of relief and I start to turn...BAM! I feel myself fall backwards on to the cement sidewalk. I sit up and stare at a tall, stalky man with bluish hair sitting up in front of me. He was covered in red...my heart stopped. "Blood?" I thought. No, I looked over and saw his cherry freezy was spilled all over.

He glared at me and screamed "I'VE BEEN WANTING A CHERRY FREEZY AND YOU RUN INTO ME AND SPILL IT ON MY FAVORITE SHIRT!"

I broke in "I'm really sorry I..I. was running so I wouldn't get beat up any worse!", He looked up at my forehead, which was bleeding from a punch I took, "I'm really sorry about that...here take my cherry freezy! I haven't drank any yet..." I shove the frozen drink towards him and he slowly out-streaches his hand and takes it.

"Thanks?" he asks as he slowly gets up and walks away. I get up, brush the dust off my pants and walk towards home.

2 - Ahh the cafe

I push the key into the keyhole and turn it until I hear the familiar "click" of the lock. I push open the door to the tiny brick house and step inside. I walk into my room, which is piled with clothes, and change into a clean set of clothes. I step over to the mirror and stare back at a purple eyed, blonde haired, girl with blood running from her forehead down to her chin. "Kate you are a mess" I exclaim as I proceed to clean my wound.

Later that week, I decide to go out, but I didn't know where I wanted to go. "Eh" I said as I locked the door behind me and walked towards the cafe. I look up at the sign on the beige colored wall. "Cafe le Prick", I laugh, " That's the perfect name for this place." I walk past some people sitting at the outdoor table and they snicker. "Bastards" I mutter.

I walk in the door and walk up to the shabby counter. "One vanilla cappuccino, please" I ask politely. Seconds later, the guy standing behind the counter hands me my beverage as I hand him my money. I walk over to an empty table by the window and sit down. I hear talking outside so I press my ear up to the glass...

"Did you hear that? Pussies don't smoke" someone says in a laughing voice. There was a brief pause and then I heard a familiar voice.

"I was going to pass this place by, in favor of the dance club up the street. I'll do the club tomorrow." He said.

I see him walk in and glance at me. He stopped and turned towards me.

"Hello, I didn't seem to catch your name..." He said waiting for an answer. "Oh," I exclaimed "my name's Kate and you are?" I answered.

He hesitated and finally said "I'm Johnny but, you can call me NNY. If I were you I would leave" The way he said that sent shivers down my spine. I got up and swiftly walked out. I turned around, halfway down the street, and I saw the window was now wet with blood.

3 - The theater is fun!

Shivering, I walk down the dark, dismal street, hugging myself to keep warm. A few minutes later, I was standing in front of the cinema. I stroll over to the ticket booth and buy a ticket.

"Prices these days" I mutter to myself as I stand in the snack line. I sniff the air and the scent of popcorn, candy, and nachos fill my nostrils. I finally get to the counter and order popcorn, a cherry freezy, and nachos. I gather up my goodies and walk in to the theater to watch my favorite movie.

I walk in almost startled at how dark it was, I was late but I only missed part of the previews. I find an empty seat two chairs down from a man, with a horrible hair cut, and a woman with short hair. All through the movie the couple talked nonstop, the guy in front of them told them to shut up a couple of times but they still talked on. I snapped. I stood up and screamed at the top of my lungs "SHUT THE FRACK UP!!!"

I froze where I was standing. I had never screamed like that ever before. I was usually so nice, so calm and quiet, I minded my own business, but today something in me snapped.....I like it.... I sit down and continue to watch the movie in complete silence.
