1 - what it is...love

what is love heh i am a ghost now but i do not know if what i had was true love or just a false prank it all started when i was a boy heh when i was still alive well anyway back with the storie i was new at a school then i got the best classes like i always do but then i saw her the girl who would be my one and only true love then she gave me an obsession...the obsession of anime and her she had the same birthday on the same year same hair color same eye color same everything except for gender which made us perfect heh at least thats what I thought then I got assigned to sit next to her she introduced her self then I did the same and before i knew it we had become good friends i secretly loved her and maybe she to me but then i got mugged and killed now i can't even see her again because i am trapped in hell
