A scrawny, tortishell tomcat crept out towards an open sewer and leaped in. Rats scattered as he walked in. A black cruppled figure hid in a small discontinued tunnel; a dead end. It was molded around the sounds of squealing figures. The tom dropped the mouse clutched in his jaws next to the she-cats and her kits. The tabby she-cat dipped her head and began to eat. Her three kits suckled. One was a tortishell she-kit, another was a tabby tom, and the last and oddest was a brown she-kit with white paws.
